112 Americans Are Due on Sunday; Sing on Way in Trucks

Pammunjom, Aug. 8 (AP)—Some laughter and joy came to Panmunjom today as 90 Americans returned to freedom in obviously better health and spirits than those liberated in the first three days of the great Korean prisoner exchange.

There were few maimed and haggard men in today's group.

The Reds sent back 250 South Koreans, 90 Americans, 35 Turks and 25 British—a total of 400.

They said Sunday's group of 400 will include 250 ROKs, 112 Americans, 21 British, 13 Turks, 2 Australians, 1 Canadian and 1 Filipino.

Biggest Shipment

The 112 Americans will be the biggest shipment of U. S. troops so far in four days of "Operation Big Switch" and will bring the total of Americans returned to 423. The Reds have promised to send back 3,313 Americans among 12,763 allied POWs.

So far, the four day exchange has brought back a grand total of 1,205 ROKs, 311 Americans, 143 Turks, 126 British, 34 Filipinos, 21 Colombians, 7 French, 6 Australians, and 1 each Belgian, Canadian, Greek and South African.

The prisoners released Saturday rolled out of the north in Red trucks under a broiling sun.

One carried skin drum and another wore a red and white cap, standing out brightly against the dull POW clothing.

Eighty were Negroes, many from the old 24th Regiment, disbanded two years ago when the army abolished racial segregation.

The returnees were exuberant.

"Well, well, old chap, Pall Malls, no less!" one quipped to Lt. Louis Balent of Summerville, N. J., when the military policeman dumped a carton of cigarettes into a helmet and passed them around.

Good to Be Back

"De light, de bright! it sure is good to be back to this little piece of the old U. S.!"

"Man do you realize we are in the USA" cried Pfc. Frank J. Quarles of Hopkinsville, Ky., as his truck pulled into the exchange point.

"I just can't keep my mouth shut," he said.

"It was a long trip and a sick one."

Seeing a convoy of singing Red Koreans driving up the road the Americans yelled and hooted.

"We might as well sing, too—shall we give him a little blues, boys?"

The British also were full of good cheer. One tall young Tommy shouted, "let's make it Dirty Dick's! (a famous east London pub)" as his truck rolled up and he spotted a newsman.

Asked how it felt to be coming back, one Briton answered:

Intense Hatred

And a deeper note was struck by the Turks and South Koreans. Their hatred of their captors was so intense that scores tore off their Chinese prison uniforms in spontaneous acts of defiance.

MPs had to restrain the Turks from stripping right in the roadway.

But even the MPs could not stop the South Koreans, who were the most brutally treated of all the Communists' captives. Many ROKs stripped to their underclothes the instant their feet struck ground, and could not be dissuaded to wait the few moments it would take to get them to a shower and a new uniform.

The Communist prisoners, too, followed the urge to shed their garments, and the UN road from Munsan to Panmunjom was littered with American army gear—wool and cotton fatigue clothing, mess kits, toilet articles and almost everything else issued to the sullen Reds.

Civilians Take Castoffs

So much was flung from the northbound trucks that poverty-stricken Korean civilians stole down from the hills and scavenged the gear.

Allied officers estimated returning Reds have discarded thousands of dollars worth of prison gear which under the Geneva convention must be the same quality of clothing as American soldiers wear at the front.

When the Reds discard their GI outfits in the Red reception center, the thrifty Communists save the clothing.

Although the return of American, British and other UN prisoners went off much as scheduled by the Reds, the Communists showed no such precision with the ROKs.

Allied officers complained that the lists of ROK prisoners sent back were grossly out of order and were, frankly, "a mess."

Rushed to Freedom

The American repatriates were rushed 12 miles south to Freedom Village, near Munsan, where they got food, showers, new clothing and other comforts.

There they told of their life in the far northern camps and revealed that some prisoners

'Stool Pigeons' Afraid To Leave Red Camps

One Informer Reported Killed by His Fellow Prisoners; Others Remain With Captors, Fear 'Going Over Side' on Way Home

Freedom Village, Korea, Aug. 8 (AP)—Two liberated Americans said today some American prisoners refused to leave North Korean prison camps only because they feared reprisals by fellow captives.

Both men said the Americans who turned down repatriation were hated because they had turned informer for the Reds.

"We had quite a bit of that," said Cpl. Tommie Hampton of Chicago. He said one "stool pigeon" had been killed by fellow prisoners.

Cpl. Thomas Murray of Baltimore, Md., who spent 32 months in a Red stockade, said definitely he knew of eight Americans who turned down a chance to return to freedom because "they were scared to come back."

He said bitterly of one:

"He was a rat, a squealer. If he came across the line I doubt if he would have lived to get here at Inchon."

Murray talked to newsmen at Inchon where he is awaiting return to the United States by ship.

M. Sgt. Louis M. Leach of Columbus, Ga., said three Americans at his camp stayed behind.

Given Warning

Asked if the three refused repatriation because they feared retaliation, Leach said angrily:

"You're damned right I think so. We told them we would throw them over the side of the ship. There's guys up there who would give their lives to get even."

Murray said prisoners called the eight "progressives" or Red sympathizers, but he didn't think that was why they refused repatriation.

"I believe they were talked into it for the sole reason that they were scared to come back," the 23-year-old Murray said.

Murray yesterday told newsmen he knew of seven Americans who refused repatriation, but today changed the figure to eight. He said he had miscounted.

He said six were white and two negroes.

Voice Bitter Hatred

Others of the 90 Americans who came back Saturday from North Korean prison camps added a new twist to life in the Red stockades—the smoking by some captives—of a narcotic weed, possibly marijuana.

Soviet Has Bomb, Says Red Leader

Malenkov Tells Cheering Parliament of News in Surprise Speech Made in Moscow

Moscow, Aug. 8 (AP)—Premier Georgi Malenkov told a cheering Parliament today the Soviet has mastered production of the hydrogen bomb.

The Russian leader made the announcement during a surprise speech before a joint session of the Supreme Soviet.

He told the deputies the Soviet defense budget—even though less than last year—provided for giving "a crushing blow to any aggressor who wants to violate the peaceful life of the Soviet Socialist Republics."

No Comment

President Eisenhower was informed immediately of the report had no comment. U. S. Atomic Energy officials declined to discuss the matter.

The United States has never said officially that it has developed a hydrogen bomb, which would carry many times the wallop of the atomic bomb. The AEC has said there has been experiments in certain thermonuclear devices, which has been taken to mean that work has been done on hydrogen bomb-like explosives. Rumors of a successful H-bomb explosion followed a series of tests last year in a Pacific island group.

Evidence of Explosion

The Soviet Union hinted as far back as 1947 that it had solved the secret of the atomic bomb. President Truman said in 1949 the United States had evidence of an atomic explosion in Russia. U. S. defense officials have proceeded on the premise that Russia has amassed by now a stock of A-bombs.

Speaking quietly and quickly, Malenkov was not interrupted until he refered to the defense strength of the Soviet Union. That brought cheers from the deputies. As they cheered he paused and mopped his forehead with a handkerchief.

Mikoyan and Bulganin were seated in a row behind the other top Soviet leaders. All the deputies rose and cheered when the leaders entered the hall in the great Kremlin Palace.

Tax Case Is In Justice Department

Further Investigation Is to Be Held on $30,000 Lawyer Claims He Paid Out to Democrats

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Justice Department has taken over investigation of transactions involving $65,000 paid Welburn Mayock, a lawyer, for getting a favorable tax ruling.

Mayock testified he paid $30,000 of this into Democratic campaign fund coffers in 1948, and that he got the ruling after a personal appeal to then Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder.

The Mayock case was among the last unearthed by a House Ways and Means subcommittee, which yesterday wound up more than two years of a frequently sensational inquiry into handling of tax matters during the Truman administration.

FBI Will Check

Justice Department officials announced yesterday the FBI will investigate the case.

Mayock, who described himself as a volunteer counsel for the Democratic National Committee in 1948, told the House group earlier this week he got the $65,000 from William S. Lasdon, chemical company executive of Yonkers, N. Y., after obtaining the Treasury Department ruling favoring Lasdon.

Snyder, now vice president of Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., at Toledo, Ohio, has said he does not recall the incident.

Subcommittee Chairman Kean (R-N. J.) turned the case over to the Justice Department following Mayock's further testimony that he gave $8,750 apiece out of his fee to Louis Markus and William Solomon of New York.

Deny Getting Money

Myock said the two men had put him in touch with Lasdon.

Markus and Solomon both denied getting the money from Mayock.

Kean remarked the conflicting testimony indicated someone was guilty of perjury and income tax evasion.

Snyder's name figured again yesterday in two further rulings aired by the congressmen in their final hearing.

One involved the Universal Pictures Corp. A. Frederich Olsen, an official in the Revenue Bureau's New York office, said the company wanted fast action on a claim for a 21-million-dollar

Parking Meters Unopposed In County's Uptown Lots

No opposition was expressed at a public hearing Friday afternoon to the proposal to install parking meters in two county-owned parking lots in uptown Kingston.

Approximately 20 persons attended the hearing, held at 3 p. m. at the court house. Spokesmen for the Uptown Business Men's Association and the Chamber of Commerce placed those two organizations on record as favoring metered parking in the county lots.

The hearing was set by the Board of Supervisors before taking final action on a proposed local law to install meters on the lot in the rear of the court house, fronting on John and Crown streets, and the lot on Main street on the former Eagle Hotel property. The meters, under provisions of the proposal, would allow up to three hours of parking at five cents for each hour. They would not take one cent pieces.

Supervisor Albert N. Cook of the First Ward was chairman of the hearing. Other members of the board's parking committee are Charles Relyea of the town of Hurley and Raymond Lindhurst of the Third Ward.

Cook announced following the hearing that the committee will report "in the near future" to the Board of Supervisors, and the board will take final action on the proposal at its next meeting, date for which has not been set. Since no opposition was expressed at the hearing, it is probable that the proposed local law will be adopted.

No Opposition

After a call for the opinions of those opposed to the meter plan brought no response at Friday's hearing, Chairman Cook asked for those in favor of the plan to speak if they desired.

Attorney James J. Abernethy told the group present that he represented the Uptown Business Men's Association, and while he felt it unnecessary to go into "lengthy" arguments in favor of the plan, since there was no opposition, he did wish to place the association on record "as strongly recommending the adoption of the proposed local law."

Adrian Kaplan then spoke as a representative of the Chamber of Commerce, stating that organization wished to add its endorsement of the plan.

The law, as read by Robert A. Snyder, clerk of the Board of Supervisors, provides for metered parking to be effective between the hours of 8 a. m. and 12 midnight on all days except Sundays and holidays. Time limit during those hours will be three hours for a vehicle in a space, and it will be illegal to deposit additional five cent pieces to extend the time beyond the three hour limit.

Five Cents an Hour

The cost of parking will be five cents an hour. The meters will not provide for fractions of an hour and will not accept pennies.

The proposed law would place the responsibility of enforcing it with the deputy sheriffs of Ulster county, "acting in accordance with instructions by the sheriff." It provides violators will be summoned to appear before the city judge of Kingston. Maximum penalty would be a fine not exceeding $50, or in default of the fine imprisonment for not more than five days.

The sheriff is charged with the duty of designating a deputy or deputies to make regular collections of the coins deposited in the meters, and to deliver them to the county treasurer.

Provisions of the law "may be temporarily suspended by the sheriff or the acting sheriff, and he may prescribe such other rules and regulations as traffic conditions may require," the proposed law reads. It also gives the sheriff authority to extend the time of the operation of the meters beyond the hours mentioned in the law. The law will take effect immediately on adoption, it provides.

130 Are Laid Off At Island Dock

Approximately 130 shipyard employes of Island Dock, Inc., have been notified of a temporary layoff, due to a reorganization of the firm's navy contract work.

The firm is keeping between 50 and 60 men at work, including those employed in the Island Dock lumberyard, which was not affected by the layoff.

One gang of shipyard workers is continuing work on one of the naval vessels, which is said to be 97 per cent completed.

All private contract work is continuing.

Auto Runs Wild Hits Car, Tree; Driver Not Hurt

Eugene Knapp Escapes Injury When He Loses Control of Car on Foxhall Avenue

Eugene Knapp of 98 O'Neil street miraculously escaped injury late Friday afternoon when he lost control of his car at Foxhall and Highland avenues while making a turn.

Traveling west on Foxhall avenue in a 1951 sedan, Knapp turned left into Highland avenue, struck a parked car in the left rear fender, ran across the street, damaging a large maple tree at 184 Highland avenue and coming to rest finally on a lawn at 186 Highland avenue, police reported.

Police said the Knapp vehicle ran over the curb, through a fence and a hedge before striking the tree.

Two Ambulances at Scene

Two ambulances were at the scene shortly after the accident, called by residents of the neighborhood who believed Knapp must be seriously injured, police said. Officers Louis W. Sapp, Jr., and Crawford Millham, Jr., reported that Knapp apparently suffered no injuries and claimed none.

He explained to police that just before making the turn into Highland avenue something happened to the car, that it picked up speed suddenly and he was unable to slow or stop it.

Police said the parked car struck in the left rear fender by the Knapp vehicle was a 1941 sedan owned by James E. Cullum, Sr., of 64 Foxhall avenue. It was parked on Highland avenue, they reported.

No one was at home at the residence of Palmer Hoffman, 184 Highland avenue, or Paul Barnum, 186 Highland avenue, at the time of the accident.

Damage Slight

Hoffman told The Freeman today that a little wire fence in his front yard and a few shrubs had been damaged but that it didn't amount to anything too

16 Nations Will Fight If Reds Attack Again

Seoul, Aug. 8 (AP)—A treaty pledging America's military might in defense of war-battered South Korea if Red armies break the truce and attack again was initialed here today.

The Mutual Security Pact, which must win U. S. Senate approval, was initialed by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and ROK Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai.

The ceremonies in President Syngman Rhee's hillside mansion climaxed four days of important conferences between Rhee and Dulles.

It came as UN headquarters in New York announced that 16 allied nations with troops in Korea have promised to take up arms again in the event of a new Communist attack. But two nations, Britain and Canada, later hedged their commitment.

Dulles and Rhee, in a joint statement issued as the security pact was initialed, hailed their work as "an important contribution to the development of independence and freedom in the Far East."

They also announced a United States-Korea agreement to walk out of the forthcoming political conference if both feel after 90 days that the Communists are "exploiting" efforts to achieve peace in Korea.

To See Japanese Premier

Dulles, his mission to Korea completed, flew to Tokyo Saturday evening on the first leg of his trip back to Washington.

Dulles said he and Japanese Prime Minister Shigeru Yooshida would meet tonight to "talk over matters of common concern, both relating to Japan and to the free world position in the Far East."

Dulles promised another statement before leaving Japan for Washington Sunday.

The Security Pact agreed upon by Dulles and Rhee provides for basing American troops in Korea. But the secretary of state told a news conference that "we want to get our armed forces home as soon as is consistent with our responsibilities."

Dulles and his advisers also discussed with South Korean leaders a vast program of economic aid planned by the U. S. to rebuild the war-shattered land. The 3-4 year program contemplates 1 billion dollars in American aid, of which 200 million already has been approved by Congress.

The two governments swapped ideas and drafted plans for working side by side to achieve peace, just as they did in fighting the war, Dulles said.

The joint Rhee-Dulles statement said they hope their exchange of views "will establish a preparatory foundation for coordinated efforts at the political conference."

The high-level international talks, according to the armistice terms, must open by Oct. 27.

The talks are aimed at finding a way to unite North and South Korea by peaceful means and fixing a time for withdrawal of Chinese and UN forces from the peninsula.

Asian Issues Might Arise

Dulles told newsmen other matters might arise for debate. These could include such Asian issues as the fate of Formosa and the Indo-China war.

But, Dulles and Rhee agreed not to let the political conversations drag on without progress.

If, after 90 days, the U. S. and South Korea see "that the conference is being exploited by the Communist delegates mainly to infiltrate, propagandize or otherwise embarrass the Republic of Korea," the two nations will walk out, they said.

The conference almost certain-

Barrier Raised To Any New Red Assault in Korea

Warn Communists That Violation of Armistice Might Bring War Beyond Korea

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—The United States and its Allies have raised two powerful barriers to any new Communist assault on South Korea.

But no public answer has been given to the question whether this country can prevent South Korean President Syngman Rhee from taking up arms against the Reds again six months hence.

The United States reported to the United Nations late yesterday that 16 UN members with troops in Korea have signed wtih the United States a declaration warning the Communists that if they violate the armistice the UN countries will fight—and the fight probably will reach beyond the boundaries of Korea.

Although two signers, Britain and Canada, made it clear they were not committing themselves in advance to strike at Red China itself, the declaration raised such a possibility if Chinese forces were again involved along with North Koreans in a drive to conquer all Korea. In the past the U. S. Allies were strongly opposed to any military action directly against Red China on the ground it might set off World War III.

At Seoul yesterday Secretary of State Dulles and South Korean President Rhee released the text of a mutual defense treaty under which the United States would regard an attack on free Korea as "dangerous to its own peace and safety" and would act to meet the danger "in accordance with its constitutional process."

Expects Ratification

The U. S. administration expects the Senate early next year to ratify the treaty.

In a joint statement Dulles and Rhee affirmed an agreement to walk out of a prospective UN-Communist conference on Korean unity, scheduled to begin within three months, if the Reds after 90 days are found to be negotiating in bad faith.

South Korea's safeguards against attack are powerfully marshaled in the mutual defense treaty and the declaration of the UN allies. Red China and Soviet Russia, if it should be tempted to become involved, have been put on notice that a new Korean war

Ulster Is Fortunate With Only Three Polio Cases

Ulster county has had only three cases of polio reported among residents this summer, "these being quite mild and non-paralytic," it was reported today by the Ulster County Health Department.

The county was described as "fortunate" to have such a low incidence of the disease among residents.

The department pointed out, however, that the picture was somewhat different for non-residents on vacation in the county, four cases having been reported among children on vacation. Two of these are girls, nine and 14 years old, and two are boys, four and five years old.

The department reported that one of the boys had been discharged as completely cured and that of the three remaining cases in the hospital "two are quite mild and without paralysis."

It was reported that those who had been in contact with these cases have received, or will receive shortly, gamma globulin as a preventive measure.

Further Investigation Is to Be Held on $30,000 Lawyer Claims He Paid Out to Democrats

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Justice Department has taken over investigation of transactions involving $65,000 paid Welburn Mayock, a lawyer, for getting a favorable tax ruling.

Mayock testified he paid $30,000 of this into Democratic campaign fund coffers in 1948, and that he got the ruling after a personal appeal to then Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder.

The Mayock case was among the last unearthed by a House Ways and Means subcommittee, which yesterday wound up more than two years of a frequently sensational inquiry into handling of tax matters during the Truman administration.

FBI Will Check

Justice Department officials announced yesterday the FBI will investigate the case.

Mayock, who described himself as a volunteer counsel for the Democratic National Committee in 1948, told the House group earlier this week he got the $65,000 from William S. Lasdon, chemical company executive of Yonkers, N. Y., after obtaining the Treasury Department ruling favoring Lasdon.

Snyder, now vice president of Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., at Toledo, Ohio, has said he does not recall the incident.

Subcommittee Chairman Kean (R-N. J.) turned the case over to the Justice Department following Mayock's further testimony that he gave $8,750 apiece out of his fee to Louis Markus and William Solomon of New York.

Deny Getting Money

Myock said the two men had put him in touch with Lasdon.

Markus and Solomon both denied getting the money from Mayock.

Kean remarked the conflicting testimony indicated someone was guilty of perjury and income tax evasion.

Snyder's name figured again yesterday in two further rulings aired by the congressmen in their final hearing.

One involved the Universal Pictures Corp. A. Frederich Olsen, an official in the Revenue Bureau's New York office, said the company wanted fast action on a claim for a 21-million-dollar

130 Are Laid Off At Island Dock

Approximately 130 shipyard employes of Island Dock, Inc., have been notified of a temporary layoff, due to a reorganization of the firm's navy contract work.

The firm is keeping between 50 and 60 men at work, including those employed in the Island Dock lumberyard, which was not affected by the layoff.

One gang of shipyard workers is continuing work on one of the naval vessels, which is said to be 97 per cent completed.

All private contract work is continuing.

Eugene Knapp of 98 O'Neil street miraculously escaped injury late Friday afternoon when he lost control of his car at Foxhall and Highland avenues while making a turn.

Traveling west on Foxhall avenue in a 1951 sedan, Knapp turned left into Highland avenue, struck a parked car in the left rear fender, ran across the street, damaging a large maple tree at 184 Highland avenue and coming to rest finally on a lawn at 186 Highland avenue, police reported.

Police said the Knapp vehicle ran over the curb, through a fence and a hedge before striking the tree.

Two Ambulances at Scene

Two ambulances were at the scene shortly after the accident, called by residents of the neighborhood who believed Knapp must be seriously injured, police said. Officers Louis W. Sapp, Jr., and Crawford Millham, Jr., reported that Knapp apparently suffered no injuries and claimed none.

He explained to police that just before making the turn into Highland avenue something happened to the car, that it picked up speed suddenly and he was unable to slow or stop it.

Police said the parked car struck in the left rear fender by the Knapp vehicle was a 1941 sedan owned by James E. Cullum, Sr., of 64 Foxhall avenue. It was parked on Highland avenue, they reported.

No one was at home at the residence of Palmer Hoffman, 184 Highland avenue, or Paul Barnum, 186 Highland avenue, at the time of the accident.

Damage Slight

Hoffman told The Freeman today that a little wire fence in his front yard and a few shrubs had been damaged but that it didn't amount to anything too

Parking Meters Unopposed In County's Uptown Lots

No opposition was expressed at a public hearing Friday afternoon to the proposal to install parking meters in two county-owned parking lots in uptown Kingston.

Approximately 20 persons attended the hearing, held at 3 p. m. at the court house. Spokesmen for the Uptown Business Men's Association and the Chamber of Commerce placed those two organizations on record as favoring metered parking in the county lots.

The hearing was set by the Board of Supervisors before taking final action on a proposed local law to install meters on the lot in the rear of the court house, fronting on John and Crown streets, and the lot on Main street on the former Eagle Hotel property. The meters, under provisions of the proposal, would allow up to three hours of parking at five cents for each hour. They would not take one cent pieces.

Supervisor Albert N. Cook of the First Ward was chairman of the hearing. Other members of the board's parking committee are Charles Relyea of the town of Hurley and Raymond Lindhurst of the Third Ward.

Cook announced following the hearing that the committee will report "in the near future" to the Board of Supervisors, and the board will take final action on the proposal at its next meeting, date for which has not been set. Since no opposition was expressed at the hearing, it is probable that the proposed local law will be adopted.

No Opposition

After a call for the opinions of those opposed to the meter plan brought no response at Friday's hearing, Chairman Cook asked for those in favor of the plan to speak if they desired.

Attorney James J. Abernethy told the group present that he represented the Uptown Business Men's Association, and while he felt it unnecessary to go into "lengthy" arguments in favor of the plan, since there was no opposition, he did wish to place the association on record "as strongly recommending the adoption of the proposed local law."

Adrian Kaplan then spoke as a representative of the Chamber of Commerce, stating that organization wished to add its endorsement of the plan.

The law, as read by Robert A. Snyder, clerk of the Board of Supervisors, provides for metered parking to be effective between the hours of 8 a. m. and 12 midnight on all days except Sundays and holidays. Time limit during those hours will be three hours for a vehicle in a space, and it will be illegal to deposit additional five cent pieces to extend the time beyond the three hour limit.

Five Cents an Hour

The cost of parking will be five cents an hour. The meters will not provide for fractions of an hour and will not accept pennies.

The proposed law would place the responsibility of enforcing it with the deputy sheriffs of Ulster county, "acting in accordance with instructions by the sheriff." It provides violators will be summoned to appear before the city judge of Kingston. Maximum penalty would be a fine not exceeding $50, or in default of the fine imprisonment for not more than five days.

The sheriff is charged with the duty of designating a deputy or deputies to make regular collections of the coins deposited in the meters, and to deliver them to the county treasurer.

Provisions of the law "may be temporarily suspended by the sheriff or the acting sheriff, and he may prescribe such other rules and regulations as traffic conditions may require," the proposed law reads. It also gives the sheriff authority to extend the time of the operation of the meters beyond the hours mentioned in the law. The law will take effect immediately on adoption, it provides.

16 Nations Will Fight If Reds Attack Again

Seoul, Aug. 8 (AP)—A treaty pledging America's military might in defense of war-battered South Korea if Red armies break the truce and attack again was initialed here today.

The Mutual Security Pact, which must win U. S. Senate approval, was initialed by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and ROK Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai.

The ceremonies in President Syngman Rhee's hillside mansion climaxed four days of important conferences between Rhee and Dulles.

It came as UN headquarters in New York announced that 16 allied nations with troops in Korea have promised to take up arms again in the event of a new Communist attack. But two nations, Britain and Canada, later hedged their commitment.

Dulles and Rhee, in a joint statement issued as the security pact was initialed, hailed their work as "an important contribution to the development of independence and freedom in the Far East."

They also announced a United States-Korea agreement to walk out of the forthcoming political conference if both feel after 90 days that the Communists are "exploiting" efforts to achieve peace in Korea.

To See Japanese Premier

Dulles, his mission to Korea completed, flew to Tokyo Saturday evening on the first leg of his trip back to Washington.

Dulles said he and Japanese Prime Minister Shigeru Yooshida would meet tonight to "talk over matters of common concern, both relating to Japan and to the free world position in the Far East."

Dulles promised another statement before leaving Japan for Washington Sunday.

The Security Pact agreed upon by Dulles and Rhee provides for basing American troops in Korea. But the secretary of state told a news conference that "we want to get our armed forces home as soon as is consistent with our responsibilities."

Dulles and his advisers also discussed with South Korean leaders a vast program of economic aid planned by the U. S. to rebuild the war-shattered land. The 3-4 year program contemplates 1 billion dollars in American aid, of which 200 million already has been approved by Congress.

The two governments swapped ideas and drafted plans for working side by side to achieve peace, just as they did in fighting the war, Dulles said.

The joint Rhee-Dulles statement said they hope their exchange of views "will establish a preparatory foundation for coordinated efforts at the political conference."

The high-level international talks, according to the armistice terms, must open by Oct. 27.

The talks are aimed at finding a way to unite North and South Korea by peaceful means and fixing a time for withdrawal of Chinese and UN forces from the peninsula.

Asian Issues Might Arise

Dulles told newsmen other matters might arise for debate. These could include such Asian issues as the fate of Formosa and the Indo-China war.

But, Dulles and Rhee agreed not to let the political conversations drag on without progress.

If, after 90 days, the U. S. and South Korea see "that the conference is being exploited by the Communist delegates mainly to infiltrate, propagandize or otherwise embarrass the Republic of Korea," the two nations will walk out, they said.

The conference almost certain-

Warn Communists That Violation of Armistice Might Bring War Beyond Korea

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—The United States and its Allies have raised two powerful barriers to any new Communist assault on South Korea.

But no public answer has been given to the question whether this country can prevent South Korean President Syngman Rhee from taking up arms against the Reds again six months hence.

The United States reported to the United Nations late yesterday that 16 UN members with troops in Korea have signed wtih the United States a declaration warning the Communists that if they violate the armistice the UN countries will fight—and the fight probably will reach beyond the boundaries of Korea.

Although two signers, Britain and Canada, made it clear they were not committing themselves in advance to strike at Red China itself, the declaration raised such a possibility if Chinese forces were again involved along with North Koreans in a drive to conquer all Korea. In the past the U. S. Allies were strongly opposed to any military action directly against Red China on the ground it might set off World War III.

At Seoul yesterday Secretary of State Dulles and South Korean President Rhee released the text of a mutual defense treaty under which the United States would regard an attack on free Korea as "dangerous to its own peace and safety" and would act to meet the danger "in accordance with its constitutional process."

Expects Ratification

The U. S. administration expects the Senate early next year to ratify the treaty.

In a joint statement Dulles and Rhee affirmed an agreement to walk out of a prospective UN-Communist conference on Korean unity, scheduled to begin within three months, if the Reds after 90 days are found to be negotiating in bad faith.

South Korea's safeguards against attack are powerfully marshaled in the mutual defense treaty and the declaration of the UN allies. Red China and Soviet Russia, if it should be tempted to become involved, have been put on notice that a new Korean war

Ulster county has had only three cases of polio reported among residents this summer, "these being quite mild and nonparalytic," it was reported today by the Ulster County Health Department.

The county was described as "fortunate" to have such a low incidence of the disease among residents.

The department pointed out, however, that the picture was somewhat different for non-residents on vacation in the county, four cases having been reported among children on vacation. Two of these are girls, nine and 14 years old, and two are boys, four and five years old.

The department reported that one of the boys had been discharged as completely cured and that of the three remaining cases in the hospital "two are quite mild and without paralysis."

It was reported that those who had been in contact with these cases have received, or will receive shortly, gamma globulin as a preventive measure.

Local Methodists Welcome Pastor to New Assignment

The Rev. Sampson M. Greene was welcomed as new pastor of the Franklin Street AME Zion Church at a special service at the church Thursday evening.

The principal speaker was Chester A. Smith of Peekskill, an outstanding layman who has served continuously on the General Council of the Methodist Church since 1916.

Stressing the debt owed the clergyman of the nation, who since Colonial times have led and inspired the nation, Smith outlined the major advances in the past 100 years, and the principal problems facing the country and the world today.

Clergymen Attend

The service was planned by a committee of church members headed by Henry Van Der Zee. Clergymen who participated included the Rev. George D. Davies, Kingston district superintendent of the Methodist Church; the the Rev. Richard Puyer of Peekskill; the Rev. Thomas L. Jenkins of Poughkeepsie; the Rev. Dr. Ralph M. Houston of St. James Methodist Church, and the Rev. Ivan F. Gossoo of Trinity Methodist Church.

Greetings were extended to the new pastor by Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly on behalf of the city of Kingston; Arthur L. Hodge, president of the local chapter of National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; John R. Warren; president of the Ulster County Church School Council, and Robert Browning, local radio newscaster.

Active in Communities

The Rev. Mr. Greene, a Methodist minister for the past 10 years, came to the Franklin street church after two years at Peekskill. Prior to that, he had served in Middletown. He has also been a member of the board of directors of the White Plains YMCA for 10 years, a member of the executive board of the Peekskill branch of NAACP, member of the Ministerial Association of New York city, and was a member last year of the newly formed Industrial Committee of Peekskill.

Musical Program

Music for the service included a contralto solo, I Made of My Heart a Temple, by Miss Dorothy Marable, soloist of St. Marks A.M.E. Church, accompanied by her sister, Miss Beatrice Marable; and a mezzo-soprano solo, Hear Thou My Prayer, by Miss June E. Van Der Zee, of the Franklin Street Church. The senior choir of the New Central Baptist Church joined with choirs of the host church in the musical program, and the Rev. Oscar Palmer of that church gave the dedication of the offering. The organist was George Armstrong.

Two Packing Guns Are New York Flying Cops

Chicago, Aug. 8 (AP)—Heavily armed police closed in as the big plane arrived at Midway Airport from New York yesterday.

The pilot had radioed ahead. The hostess saw two male passengers packing guns.

Detective Lt. William Walsh spied the men. He politely asked them if they'd like a "lift" downtown. They accepted, and Lt. Walsh and his men sped the pair to police headquarters.

At headquarters, the pair readily produced their guns. They also showed their identity cards. One was a captain, the other a lieutenant on the New York police force.

Red faced Chicago police drove the two to their Loop hotel.

"We saved cab fare," said the New Yorkers.

One-Night Drive Tuesday, Aug. 18 For Boy Scouts

Tuesday evening, August 18, has been designated as the night when the 1953 campaign for funds for the Kingston District of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be held.

This information was released today by A. P. McCorkle, representing the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the local drive this year.

Mr. McCorkle stated that the quota for the entire council, covering Ulster and Greene counties, is $20,000, with the Kingston District asked to raise the sum of $9,210.

"The one-night drive on August 18 is ready to roll," said Mr. McCorkle, "with the chairmen of the various city wards and outlying areas already selected. These chairmen in turn have lined up people to work on their particular territory and expect to complete the campaign in one evening of canvassing."

The total boy membership of the Rip Van Winkle Council is now in excess of 1,900—an all-time high for the local council. Figures predicated on past performances indicate that this total will increase considerably before the end of the year, "and this makes the success of the August 18 drive imperative," remarked Mr. McCorkle.

Hope Is Brighter In Truck Strike

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Action yesterday by both sides in the truck driver's strike which has crippled construction in the mertopolitan area lends a "glimmer of hope" for settlement said Daniel Kornblum, director of the city's division of labor relations.

He said Local 282 of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters has asked the city for 1,000 copies of a citizens' committee's recommended terms for settlement, "obviously" Kornblum added, for study by individual union members.

An employer committee has notified the city mediators it will continue to give "intensive consideration" to the recommendations, thought, it warned, the terms recommended "entail an enormous and extraordinary increase in labor costs," Kornblum said.

The striking drivers, who have not had a new contract in more than three years, now get $16 a day, with the exception of the lumber drivers who get $14.08. The lumber drivers also get welfare benefits.

Demands 75 Cents More

The strikers have been demanding 75 cents an hour more in pay plus pension and welfare benefits. Drivers of sand, gravel and transit-mix concrete have turned down an employer offer of 30 cents more in wages, plus certain fringe benefits.

However, one group of drivers, the dump truck men, last week accepted a 40-cent wage boost and a five-per-cent-of-payroll pension-welfare provision. The fact-finders' formula generally parallels the dump truck drivers' settlement.

Compliments Comic Books

Albany, Aug. 8 (AP)—Dr. Charles F. Gosnell, New York state librarian, has a good word to say for those much-criticized comic books. They're "tremendously effective" in getting messages across to people who don't read well, he told the Albany Rotary Club. And, he said, comic book readers outnumber the moving picture audience at its greatest.

Quell Colombo Riot

Colombo, Ceylon, Aug. 8 (AP)—Police quelled a wild riot by 400 prisoners at Mahara jail, seven miles from Colombo, early today, reportedly killing one inmate and wounding four others with gunfire. The rioting was touched off by the transfer of a 16-year-old prisoner as punishment for setting his bedding afire.

Arab Refugees Haunt Worried West

Food is scarce—and rationed by UN.

Some one million Palestinian Arab refugees, living in the Middle East as a result of the Israeli-Arab war, wage an almost hopeless battle for survival and the West is worried, because Communists in the area are casting hopeful eyes at them. They live in exile today in Syria, Jordan, Lebanon and Egypt because their homes were taken away and given to Israel. Lack of food and shelter, disease and enforced idleness have made their plight unbearable, while insidious Red propaganda constantly lures them. Their plight is so desperate that the American Middle East Relief Agency, aided by the U. S. State Department conducted a drive to give these people the necessities of life. About nine million pounds of food, clothes and medicine (worth $4 million) have been shipped overseas to help the destitute.

Many live in "caves" made from huge rocks, roofed with rags.

Local Methodists Welcome Pastor to New Assignment

The Rev. Sampson M. Greene was welcomed as new pastor of the Franklin Street AME Zion Church at a special service at the church Thursday evening.

The principal speaker was Chester A. Smith of Peekskill, an outstanding layman who has served continuously on the General Council of the Methodist Church since 1916.

Stressing the debt owed the clergyman of the nation, who since Colonial times have led and inspired the nation, Smith outlined the major advances in the past 100 years, and the principal problems facing the country and the world today.

Clergymen Attend

The service was planned by a committee of church members headed by Henry Van Der Zee. Clergymen who participated included the Rev. George D. Davies, Kingston district superintendent of the Methodist Church; the the Rev. Richard Puyer of Peekskill; the Rev. Thomas L. Jenkins of Poughkeepsie; the Rev. Dr. Ralph M. Houston of St. James Methodist Church, and the Rev. Ivan F. Gossoo of Trinity Methodist Church.

Greetings were extended to the new pastor by Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly on behalf of the city of Kingston; Arthur L. Hodge, president of the local chapter of National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; John R. Warren; president of the Ulster County Church School Council, and Robert Browning, local radio newscaster.

Active in Communities

The Rev. Mr. Greene, a Methodist minister for the past 10 years, came to the Franklin street church after two years at Peekskill. Prior to that, he had served in Middletown. He has also been a member of the board of directors of the White Plains YMCA for 10 years, a member of the executive board of the Peekskill branch of NAACP, member of the Ministerial Association of New York city, and was a member last year of the newly formed Industrial Committee of Peekskill.

Musical Program

Music for the service included a contralto solo, I Made of My Heart a Temple, by Miss Dorothy Marable, soloist of St. Marks A.M.E. Church, accompanied by her sister, Miss Beatrice Marable; and a mezzo-soprano solo, Hear Thou My Prayer, by Miss June E. Van Der Zee, of the Franklin Street Church. The senior choir of the New Central Baptist Church joined with choirs of the host church in the musical program, and the Rev. Oscar Palmer of that church gave the dedication of the offering. The organist was George Armstrong.

Two Packing Guns Are New York Flying Cops

Chicago, Aug. 8 (AP)—Heavily armed police closed in as the big plane arrived at Midway Airport from New York yesterday.

The pilot had radioed ahead. The hostess saw two male passengers packing guns.

Detective Lt. William Walsh spied the men. He politely asked them if they'd like a "lift" downtown. They accepted, and Lt. Walsh and his men sped the pair to police headquarters.

At headquarters, the pair readily produced their guns. They also showed their identity cards. One was a captain, the other a lieutenant on the New York police force.

Red faced Chicago police drove the two to their Loop hotel.

"We saved cab fare," said the New Yorkers.

One-Night Drive Tuesday, Aug. 18 For Boy Scouts

Tuesday evening, August 18, has been designated as the night when the 1953 campaign for funds for the Kingston District of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be held.

This information was released today by A. P. McCorkle, representing the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the local drive this year.

Mr. McCorkle stated that the quota for the entire council, covering Ulster and Greene counties, is $20,000, with the Kingston District asked to raise the sum of $9,210.

"The one-night drive on August 18 is ready to roll," said Mr. McCorkle, "with the chairmen of the various city wards and outlying areas already selected. These chairmen in turn have lined up people to work on their particular territory and expect to complete the campaign in one evening of canvassing."

The total boy membership of the Rip Van Winkle Council is now in excess of 1,900—an all-time high for the local council. Figures predicated on past performances indicate that this total will increase considerably before the end of the year, "and this makes the success of the August 18 drive imperative," remarked Mr. McCorkle.

Protests to Dulles

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Daily Worker, Communist newspaper, said yesterday the passport of its European editor has been revoked and made public its protest to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. A spokesman for the paper said the State Department revoked European Editor Joseph Starobin's passport Thursday when he arrived from abroad for a visit. He did not say what reason, if any, was given.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Modena Methodist Church held its August meeting at the home of Mrs. Earl B. DeWitt on Thursday afternoon, when the regular business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. Stewart Pink. It was reported that a sum exceeding $228.05 was netted from the recent church fair and supper held in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, and $75.75 at the lunch served at the public auction at the former Ward farm. Attending Thursday's meeting were Mrs. Floyd B. Wells, Mrs. Hallock Harris, Mrs. Myron L. Shultis, Mrs. Frank Black, Black, Mrs. Stewart Pink, Mrs. Anna E. Miller, Mrs. Emory Conklin, Mrs. Fred Bernard, Mrs. Lillian Courter, Mrs. Joseph E. Hasbrouck and Mrs. Grace Chambers of New Paltz, a former local resident and member of the WSCS. Mrs. Chambers rejoined the society at this time. The next meeting is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 3, at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. Stewart Pink.

The Rev. and Mrs. John E. Swords and children, Peter and Mary, are visiting Mrs. Swords' brother, the Rev. Richard Moore at Franklin, N. Y. Later this week they plan to visit her father, the Rev. Otis Moore in New York city.

Mrs. Grace Chambers of New Paltz is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Henry Black and family here.

Hope Is Brighter In Truck Strike

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Action yesterday by both sides in the truck driver's strike which has crippled construction in the mertopolitan area lends a "glimmer of hope" for settlement said Daniel Kornblum, director of the city's division of labor relations.

He said Local 282 of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters has asked the city for 1,000 copies of a citizens' committee's recommended terms for settlement, "obviously" Kornblum added, for study by individual union members.

An employer committee has notified the city mediators it will continue to give "intensive consideration" to the recommendations, thought, it warned, the terms recommended "entail an enormous and extraordinary increase in labor costs," Kornblum said.

The striking drivers, who have not had a new contract in more than three years, now get $16 a day, with the exception of the lumber drivers who get $14.08. The lumber drivers also get welfare benefits.

Demands 75 Cents More

The strikers have been demanding 75 cents an hour more in pay plus pension and welfare benefits. Drivers of sand, gravel and transit-mix concrete have turned down an employer offer of 30 cents more in wages, plus certain fringe benefits.

However, one group of drivers, the dump truck men, last week accepted a 40-cent wage boost and a five-per-cent-of-payroll pension-welfare provision. The fact-finders' formula generally parallels the dump truck drivers' settlement.

Compliments Comic Books

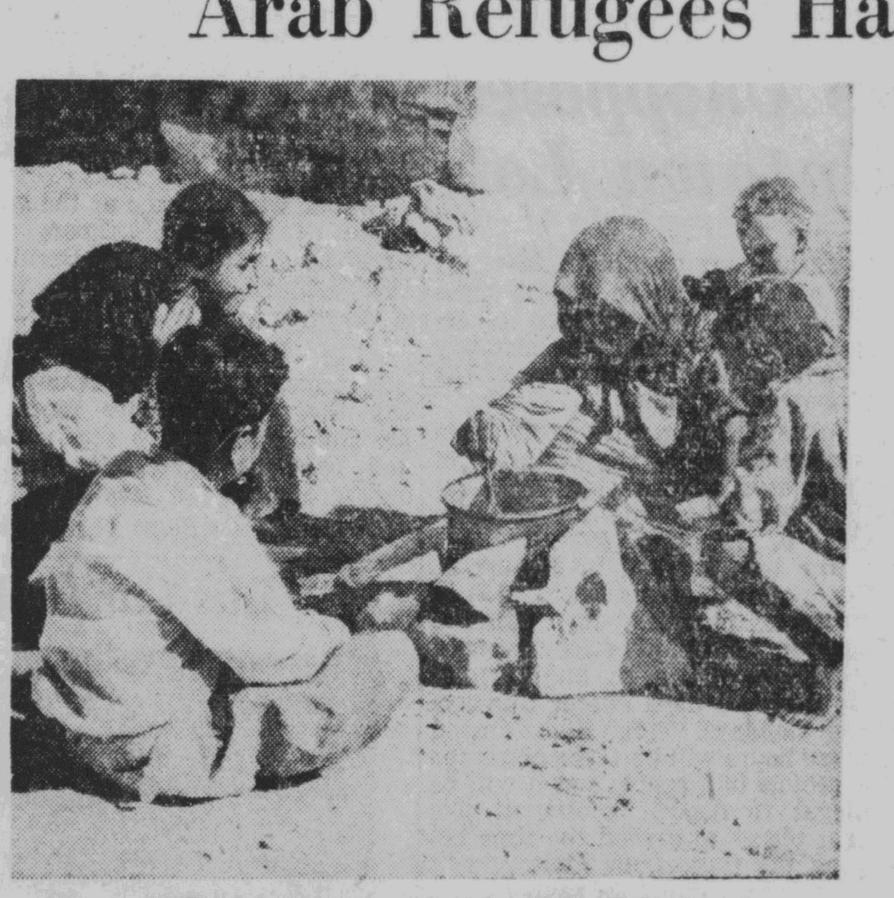
Albany, Aug. 8 (AP)—Dr. Charles F. Gosnell, New York state librarian, has a good word to say for those much-criticized comic books. They're "tremendously effective" in getting messages across to people who don't read well, he told the Albany Rotary Club. And, he said, comic book readers outnumber the moving picture audience at its greatest.

Quell Colombo Riot

Colombo, Ceylon, Aug. 8 (AP)—Police quelled a wild riot by 400 prisoners at Mahara jail, seven miles from Colombo, early today, reportedly killing one inmate and wounding four others with gunfire. The rioting was touched off by the transfer of a 16-year-old prisoner as punishment for setting his bedding afire.

Arab Refugees Haunt Worried West

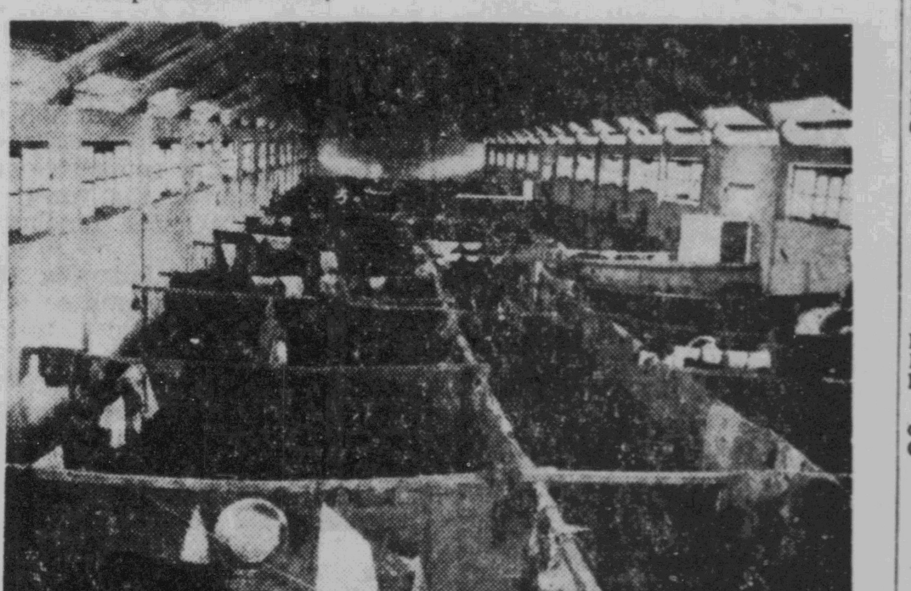
Some one million Palestinian Arab refugees, living in the Middle East as a result of the Israeli-Arab war, wage an almost hopeless battle for survival and the West is worried, because Communists in the area are casting hopeful eyes at them. They live in exile today in Syria, Jordan, Lebanon and Egypt because their homes were taken away and given to Israel. Lack of food and shelter, disease and enforced idleness have made their plight unbearable, while insidious Red propaganda constantly lures them. Their plight is so desperate that the American Middle East Relief Agency, aided by the U. S. State Department conducted a drive to give these people the necessities of life. About nine million pounds of food, clothes and medicine (worth $4 million) have been shipped overseas to help the destitute.



Food is scarce—and rationed by UN.

Rags are their only clothes.

Many live in "caves" made from huge rocks, roofed with rags.



"De luxe" housing is this barracks. Each family has a compartment.

STOCKS START DECLINE—Newschart shows fluctuation in prices of common stocks from 1939 to the present, using 1939 index of 100. Stock prices generally have declined from the high point reached earlier in 1953. In mid-June the composite index was near the pre-election day level. Among the stock price indexes, transportation and manufacturing issues have soared since mid-1939, and utilities have advanced moderately. Data from National Industrial Conference Board.

Haymes Claims He Asked About Trip

Los Angeles, Aug. 8 (AP)—Crooner Dick Haymes, who faces deportation because as an alien he left the continental United States to visit Rita Hayworth in Hawaii, says he did so only after getting an immigration agent's OK.

Haymes' attorney, Robert Eaton, told newsmen last night that prior to the trip the Argentina-born singer "sought the advice and approval of the Immigration Department and was told by one of its agents that the trip was perfectly all right."

Eaton said he may appeal to Congress for an act making Haymes a citizen. District Immigration Director Herman Landon said that is the only way the crooner can now become a citizen.

Haymes was arrested Thursday for violating the McCarran Immigration Act. It provides that an alien who leaves continental United States may not re-enter unless he meets requirements of alien laws applying to first time immigrants, except that he needs no immigration visa.

Blames Blood Pressure

Director Landon said that Haymes, when he applied for exemption from the draft in 1944 on the ground he was a neutral alien, signed a statement admitting that he was forever ineligible to become a citizen of the United States.

The crooner's lawyer said Haymes' first loyalty always has been to this country and that twice he had taken induction examinations during World War 2, in New York and Los Angeles, and was rejected because of high blood pressure.

Haymes is free on $500 bond, pending a hearing in two weeks.

Niches in Dining Room

If your dining room boasts niches, built-in shelving or any similar modern feature, why not accentuate the fact by painting that particular part in a color which contrasts with the remainder of the wall surface? It can be highly effective — another little touch in making the mealtime meeting place of the family attractive and delightful.

Tastefully Designed For Gracious Living

Rooms	Seven
Bedrooms	Three
Dimensions	70' x 40'
Closets	Eleven
Cubage	43,000 ft.

Since the overall dimensions of "The Foresight" are 70' x 40' you'll need a good-sized lot if you want to build this house; minimum lot required would be one of 90 feet. "The Foresight" will be set off to best advantage if it is placed well back from the street or road with plenty of land on the sides and in the back; hence, a larger than minimum size lot is recommended.

Whether you have a full or partial basement under "The Foresight" is up to you. If you're interested in cutting down construction expenses and don't feel that you need extra basement space, you can have a basement under the living room only. This will provide ample area for your heating equipment to be installed.

Cubage of the house with a partial basement is 38,600 feet. If you decide upon a full basement, cubage of "The Foresight" will be 43,000 feet.

With the bedrooms and the garage providing balancing wings, the mid-section of "The Foresight" is set slightly back. The roof overhang, which protects the living room and front entry, is also an architectural feature that helps to give this house an individual and charming appearance.

Unusualy large and rounded, the picture window in the front living room wall permits you to enjoy your well landscaped front lawn and garden while relaxing in your living room. By bringing the outside into your home, this handsome picture window gives the 22'x13'4" living room an appearance of being even more spacious than it actually is.

When you build a house such as "The Foresight" in which outdoors and indoors are so closely integrated, correct landscaping (including choice of plantings) becomes more important than ever. Not only is this true in regard to the front of the house but for the back terrace as well. Proper planning can turn this area into an attractive and comfortable outdoor living room that you, your family and friends will thoroughly enjoy during the warm weather.

Just as modern and attractive inside as out, "The Foresight" boasts a very practical room layout. Extending from the entry hall, a foyer leads to a hallway connecting with the kitchen and with the other rooms in the house as well; doors to the cellar and garage also open off this hallway. Therefore, it's not necessary to go through the living room to reach other rooms in this ranch house.

The lavatory at the front of the house is another practical feature, for not only does it relieve the early morning bathroom bottleneck but also comes in handy for "Mom" when she's working in that section of the house, as well as when "company" comes to call.

Twelve conveniently placed closets solve the storage problem in "The Foresight," while two regular bedrooms and a third den or bedroom provide plenty of sleeping room for even the above-average size family. And, the lady of the house especially will appreciate the step-saving, convenient layout of the proximity of the dining room and kitchen.

For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, Kingston Daily Freeman and enclose a self-addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

How to Paint Outdoor Plywood

You can get a durable, good-looking paint job on plywood used outdoors in siding, fences or storage units merely by following good paint procedure for any wood surface.

For best results there are three important guides. First, seal the edges properly. Second, prime the panels as soon as it is feasible, preferably before they are put into place. Finally, use only top quality exterior paints.

Whenever using plywood outside, you must make sure you have exterior panels with waterproof glue.

The best paints for regular wood surfaces are also the best for plywood. High grade exterior house paints of either TLZ or white lead and oil formulations give excellent service. Avoid those paints that set to a hard, brittle film.

If it is at all possible, seal all edges before installation with a heavy coat of high-grade exterior lead and oil paint. In unusually damp locations, it is a good idea to prime the back of the panels before construction starts.

Here's a good three-coat system.

Use a good exterior primer thinned with one pint of pure raw linseed oil per gallon of paint. This is the most important step. The prime coat seals the wood and provides a good base for following coats.

Over the prime coat apply the second and third coats according to directions on the can.

Stains, when applied to plywood permanently exposed to weather, do not provide an adequate protective film for the wood, checking may occur and such finishes usually require extra maintenance.

Buy Canned Putty

It's easier to buy putty ready mixed from your paint store or hardware dealer than it is to try to make your own. It comes in an airtight container and can be kneaded for use on any non-absorbent surface such as a glass plate. To keep left over putty in a can cover with a thin film of linseed oil and wax paper or metal foil. Putty is a mixture of powdered whiting and linseed oil. Addition of a tenth part of white lead paste can increase its strength and durability. But straight white lead paste if used for glazing can harden so firmly that it often causes wood sash to splinter when it is removed.

Warm the Varnish

Varnish goes on much easier in cold weather if the can of varnish is first warmed in a pan of hot water. If the work is to be done in a cold room, keep the container of varnish in warm water so it won't be chilled. But keep the varnish away from open flame.

Plywood Facial Brightens Kitchen

You can modernize a reasonably well laid out old-fashioned kitchen with a new "kitchen facial" that will freshen up the whole area more easily than you think.

Here's how.

Simply replace the existing "old hat" lip doors on your kitchen cupboards with modern flush-surfaced plywood doors. Cut them from ¾-inch fir plywood to fit the openings.

There is a new type of hinge called a pin set hinge now on the market in most hardware stores that makes it possible to install flush face doors in old kitchen cabinets without screwing the hinge into the edge of the door. That's the secret.

After you have installed new doors, then pick out some good modern kitchen hardware and replace the old door and drawer pulls.

An attractive paint job, particularly with well chosen colors, will finish the project. You'll be surprised at how this "facial" will brighten the room. Perhaps you can finish the doors with light stain to retain the wood beauty and paint the rest of the cabinet a harmonizing color.

Save Elbow Grease

Before windows are closed for the winter, rub some wax or paraffin along the groove in the frame where the sash moves up and down. If this is done, the window will move easily when the time comes to open it.

Garage Clothes-Dryer

High Chair Trick

You don't need to throw that old high chair into the basement when junior outgrows it. Just try this. Cut the legs off so that you have a chair that is a convenient height for the child. Leave the arms on or take them off, whichever looks best from your standpoint. Then mount a piece of fir plywood on the legs which have been cut off to make a table that is the height for the new chair. When you do this you will have a table and chair for your youngster. He'll love it and it will be all the better having it made from the old high chair with which he is so familiar.

When House Needs Paint

It isn't hard to tell when the outside of your house needs painting. If the surface is glossy and smooth, you may be sure that your house is well protected against the constant attacks of the elements. But if the gleam has gone out of the paint, if the surface is dry and chalk-like and there are places where the coating has washed off altogether, it's high time to call for the painter.

Harmony in Woodwork

STOCKS START DECLINE—Newschart shows fluctuation in prices of common stocks from 1939 to the present, using 1939 index of 100. Stock prices generally have declined from the high point reached earlier in 1953. In mid-June the composite index was near the pre-election day level. Among the stock price indexes, transportation and manufacturing issues have soared since mid-1939, and utilities have advanced moderately. Data from National Industrial Conference Board.

Haymes Claims He Asked About Trip

Los Angeles, Aug. 8 (AP)—Crooner Dick Haymes, who faces deportation because as an alien he left the continental United States to visit Rita Hayworth in Hawaii, says he did so only after getting an immigration agent's OK.

Haymes' attorney, Robert Eaton, told newsmen last night that prior to the trip the Argentina-born singer "sought the advice and approval of the Immigration Department and was told by one of its agents that the trip was perfectly all right."

Eaton said he may appeal to Congress for an act making Haymes a citizen. District Immigration Director Herman Landon said that is the only way the crooner can now become a citizen.

Haymes was arrested Thursday for violating the McCarran Immigration Act. It provides that an alien who leaves continental United States may not re-enter unless he meets requirements of alien laws applying to first time immigrants, except that he needs no immigration visa.

Blames Blood Pressure

Director Landon said that Haymes, when he applied for exemption from the draft in 1944 on the ground he was a neutral alien, signed a statement admitting that he was forever ineligible to become a citizen of the United States.

The crooner's lawyer said Haymes' first loyalty always has been to this country and that twice he had taken induction examinations during World War 2, in New York and Los Angeles, and was rejected because of high blood pressure.

Haymes is free on $500 bond, pending a hearing in two weeks.

Niches in Dining Room

If your dining room boasts niches, built-in shelving or any similar modern feature, why not accentuate the fact by painting that particular part in a color which contrasts with the remainder of the wall surface? It can be highly effective — another little touch in making the mealtime meeting place of the family attractive and delightful.

Tastefully Designed For Gracious Living

Rooms	Seven
Bedrooms	Three
Dimensions	70' x 40'
Closets	Eleven
Cubage	43,000 ft.

Since the overall dimensions of "The Foresight" are 70' x 40' you'll need a good-sized lot if you want to build this house; minimum lot required would be one of 90 feet. "The Foresight" will be set off to best advantage if it is placed well back from the street or road with plenty of land on the sides and in the back; hence, a larger than minimum size lot is recommended.

Whether you have a full or partial basement under "The Foresight" is up to you. If you're interested in cutting down construction expenses and don't feel that you need extra basement space, you can have a basement under the living room only. This will provide ample area for your heating equipment to be installed.

Cubage of the house with a partial basement is 38,600 feet. If you decide upon a full basement, cubage of "The Foresight" will be 43,000 feet.

With the bedrooms and the garage providing balancing wings, the mid-section of "The Foresight" is set slightly back. The roof overhang, which protects the living room and front entry, is also an architectural feature that helps to give this house an individual and charming appearance.

Unusualy large and rounded, the picture window in the front living room wall permits you to enjoy your well landscaped front lawn and garden while relaxing in your living room. By bringing the outside into your home, this handsome picture window gives the 22'x13'4" living room an appearance of being even more spacious than it actually is.

When you build a house such as "The Foresight" in which outdoors and indoors are so closely integrated, correct landscaping (including choice of plantings) becomes more important than ever. Not only is this true in regard to the front of the house but for the back terrace as well. Proper planning can turn this area into an attractive and comfortable outdoor living room that you, your family and friends will thoroughly enjoy during the warm weather.

Just as modern and attractive inside as out, "The Foresight" boasts a very practical room layout. Extending from the entry hall, a foyer leads to a hallway connecting with the kitchen and with the other rooms in the house as well; doors to the cellar and garage also open off this hallway. Therefore, it's not necessary to go through the living room to reach other rooms in this ranch house.

The lavatory at the front of the house is another practical feature, for not only does it relieve the early morning bathroom bottleneck but also comes in handy for "Mom" when she's working in that section of the house, as well as when "company" comes to call.

Twelve conveniently placed closets solve the storage problem in "The Foresight," while two regular bedrooms and a third den or bedroom provide plenty of sleeping room for even the above-average size family. And, the lady of the house especially will appreciate the step-saving, convenient layout of the proximity of the dining room and kitchen.

For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, Kingston Daily Freeman and enclose a self-addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

How to Paint Outdoor Plywood

You can get a durable, good-looking paint job on plywood used outdoors in siding, fences or storage units merely by following good paint procedure for any wood surface.

For best results there are three important guides. First, seal the edges properly. Second, prime the panels as soon as it is feasible, preferably before they are put into place. Finally, use only top quality exterior paints.

Whenever using plywood outside, you must make sure you have exterior panels with waterproof glue.

The best paints for regular wood surfaces are also the best for plywood. High grade exterior house paints of either TLZ or white lead and oil formulations give excellent service. Avoid those paints that set to a hard, brittle film.

If it is at all possible, seal all edges before installation with a heavy coat of high-grade exterior lead and oil paint. In unusually damp locations, it is a good idea to prime the back of the panels before construction starts.

Here's a good three-coat system.

Use a good exterior primer thinned with one pint of pure raw linseed oil per gallon of paint. This is the most important step. The prime coat seals the wood and provides a good base for following coats.

Over the prime coat apply the second and third coats according to directions on the can.

Stains, when applied to plywood permanently exposed to weather, do not provide an adequate protective film for the wood, checking may occur and such finishes usually require extra maintenance.

Buy Canned Putty

It's easier to buy putty ready mixed from your paint store or hardware dealer than it is to try to make your own. It comes in an airtight container and can be kneaded for use on any non-absorbent surface such as a glass plate. To keep left over putty in a can cover with a thin film of linseed oil and wax paper or metal foil. Putty is a mixture of powdered whiting and linseed oil. Addition of a tenth part of white lead paste can increase its strength and durability. But straight white lead paste if used for glazing can harden so firmly that it often causes wood sash to splinter when it is removed.

Warm the Varnish

Varnish goes on much easier in cold weather if the can of varnish is first warmed in a pan of hot water. If the work is to be done in a cold room, keep the container of varnish in warm water so it won't be chilled. But keep the varnish away from open flame.

Plywood Facial Brightens Kitchen

You can modernize a reasonably well laid out old-fashioned kitchen with a new "kitchen facial" that will freshen up the whole area more easily than you think.

Here's how.

Simply replace the existing "old hat" lip doors on your kitchen cupboards with modern flush-surfaced plywood doors. Cut them from ¾-inch fir plywood to fit the openings.

There is a new type of hinge called a pin set hinge now on the market in most hardware stores that makes it possible to install flush face doors in old kitchen cabinets without screwing the hinge into the edge of the door. That's the secret.

After you have installed new doors, then pick out some good modern kitchen hardware and replace the old door and drawer pulls.

An attractive paint job, particularly with well chosen colors, will finish the project. You'll be surprised at how this "facial" will brighten the room. Perhaps you can finish the doors with light stain to retain the wood beauty and paint the rest of the cabinet a harmonizing color.

Save Elbow Grease

Before windows are closed for the winter, rub some wax or paraffin along the groove in the frame where the sash moves up and down. If this is done, the window will move easily when the time comes to open it.

Garage Clothes-Dryer

High Chair Trick

You don't need to throw that old high chair into the basement when junior outgrows it. Just try this. Cut the legs off so that you have a chair that is a convenient height for the child. Leave the arms on or take them off, whichever looks best from your standpoint. Then mount a piece of fir plywood on the legs which have been cut off to make a table that is the height for the new chair. When you do this you will have a table and chair for your youngster. He'll love it and it will be all the better having it made from the old high chair with which he is so familiar.

When House Needs Paint

It isn't hard to tell when the outside of your house needs painting. If the surface is glossy and smooth, you may be sure that your house is well protected against the constant attacks of the elements. But if the gleam has gone out of the paint, if the surface is dry and chalk-like and there are places where the coating has washed off altogether, it's high time to call for the painter.

NEW WORLD TIES

Dr. Milton Eisenhower, returned from his good will tour and fact-finding mission in South America, said that good relations between the United States and South America are "critically important in the world-wide struggle for the winning of men's minds and allegiances." He said that he was cordially welcomed in every country he visited but that he found "much misunderstanding of the United States, misunderstanding especially of the economic capacity of the United States and an underestimation of the degree of the sacrifices the people of our country have made since 1941."

The trip to the Latin American countries may accomplish a great deal of good. It may alert our officials to the necessity of letting the people of those countries know more about us. The friendship of the Latin American countries is extremely valuable to us and we must let them know that we realize this. We have spent a great deal of time and money trying to win the support of countries in Europe and Asia and it would be foolish to continue neglecting our relations with our neighbors of the New World.

As Dr. Eisenhower pointed out cooperation and harmony between the United States and the republics of South America will not be accomplished by accident or by wishful thinking. We must be prepared to work if we want success. We must be ready to promote programs which will further understanding and develop a mutual respect for each other's customs, traditions and way of life.

President Eisenhower's decision to send his brother as his representative was a wise one. Dr. Eisenhower, from his initial comments on his trip, demonstrated that he was an observant visitor with a keen eye for finding things which need to be corrected. Once he makes a full report a real effort should be made to act on his suggestions.

If the Russians wish to prove that they are sincere about wanting peace in the world why don't they retract their claim that it was a Russian who invented the first wheel?

PRESIDENT DE GASPERI'S FALL

When the Italian voters in June returned Premier De Gasperi's government coalition to power by the narrowest of margins, the peril was recognized. Now that danger is upon us. His downfall is a sad loss for the West.

The United States had no firmer friend in Europe, unless it be Chancellor Adenauer of Germany. De Gasperi brought Italy into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He championed the European Defense Community and every other project for the political and economic union of the continent. And he supported American foreign policy openly and vigorously.

We at home may not fully realize it, but we do not have too many such friends around the world today. For a variety of reasons, some fair and some unfair, American prestige has sunk. Whatever we may think about these judgments, we must still be thankful for friends where we can find them.

De Gasperi is 72 and tired. He may never head another government, though it is possible he might come back if new elections are forced and the center coalition by which he governed is strengthened.

Barring that, about the most we can hope for is that De Gasperi will be named foreign minister in any new government to follow. In that post he would still exert powerful influence for Western causes. But it would not be quite the same. No one expects that some other premier, even though he be of De Gasperi's Christian Democratic Party, would be so stout a champion of America and its aims.

Senator Joseph Kennedy will leave the list of eligible Washington bachelors this fall. Apparently senatorial immunity is no protection against Cupid.

Many a husband has what it takes—until the little woman takes it.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE SAHARA DESERT

It gives one a queer feeling of a world in constant state of flux to be told that the Sahara Desert is something more than a vast area of sand, traversed by camels ridden by sheiks. Yet, into our modern world, the Saraha moves upon us as a political and economic potential of a high order. It is no longer to be regarded as a desert, but a land of vast and unforetellable possibilities.

The Romans knew something of that and therefore destroyed Carthage. The Mohammedans knew something of that when they conquered the north of Africa from Cairo to Casablanca. But neither Roman nor Arab ever realized how dependent the world would become upon minerals, how the center of political power would be associated with the possession of minerals, that uranium would become more important to the security of a state than gold.

It used to be that the nation that possessed gold was rich. Then coal and iron grew in importance. In this century, copper, lead, zinc, tin uranium vie with coal and iron in economic and political significance. For instance, the United States obtains practically all of its uranium from Africa and Canada which have therefore taken on an altogether new meaning for this country, as our life as a free people depends upon our access to this mineral.

The Sahara is full of minerals and metals. It is a vast region of nearly 6,000,000 square miles or nearly twice the size of the United States. (There is some difference of opinion as to the actual size of the Sahara, depending upon how the territory is calculated.)

Most of the Sahara is controlled by France and may, in the not too distant historic future, became economically more important to France than France itself. In fact, if the French can hold onto the Sahara, particularly to the French protectorates, Tunisia and Morocco, France could be restored to a first-class power which she has not been since 1870. The restoration of France's position could change the balance of power in the world. It could make France the greatest of Western European countries.

The substitution of motorized transportation for the camel and the fiery Arab horse can make all the difference in the development of the Sahara, for, while the camel, horse and nomadic flocks of sheep are picturesque, the tractor, jeep, airplane and automobile will change the face of this continent of sand. Nor will life be so dependent upon the oasis, surrounded by palm trees. Modern machinery can be brought in to find and dig wells, not only for water but for oil which is beginning to appear in quantities. Modern irrigation methods can transform wildernesses into agricultural paradises.

I have recently been looking at some figures showing mineral wealth already produced in this region. It runs to copper, iron, maganese, lead, zinc, tin, sulphur, and coal. Manganese is particularly important because it is not readily available for American steel production and every new find proves valuable. Coal is abundant, rising in Algeria from 17,000 tons in 1930 to about 600,000 tons in 1952. In the Moroccan part of the Sahara valuable anthracite mines are being exploited.

Africa is still looked upon as a dark and unknown continent, but it is nothing of the sort. World War II established its tremendous importance as a base for the defense of our country from any European aggressor. In the event of a war with Russia, the United States will more likely be based on Africa than on any country in Europe and the Sahara Desert will be very important to us. Actually, considerable developments of this nature have already taken place.

That is one reason for the increased interest in that part of the world and the tremendous impetus that has been given to its exploration in recent years.

Another importance of the Sahara is that once modern methods of irrigation are applied, it will be possible to increase the population of the Sahara, transferring large numbers of Europeans, particularly farmers, from those countries that are vexed with surplus populations for which few solutions are at present available. For instance, migrations of Italians, Spaniards, and even Germans to the Saharan countries may be expected in increasing numbers during the next half century. The movement of Europeans to Africa could alter the social complexion of that continent.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

TREATMENT OF CORONARY THROMBOSIS

I have written before about visiting a veterans' hospital to call on a physician friend who had had an attack of coronary occlusion (heart stroke) and was lying patiently in bed, greatly depressed in spirits. The superintendent of the hospital visited the room and I introduced the two physicians to each other. The superintendent said "What's he got, a coronary?" On learning that this was the case, he said, "Oh, that's nothing. I've had a half dozen coronary attacks, I go to bed for a month, and then come back to work." Naturally, this was cheering news to my friend.

As this lying in bed with nothing to think about but his heart stroke is bound to depress the heart patient, some months ago I described what is called "coronary armchair" treatment for coronary thrombosis which is now being used by many heart specialists in both hospital and private practice.

It might be well for the sake of the morale of these patients if they were given this treatment; it would give hope and assurance. I am therefore repeating some of the facts about coronary armchair therapy as given a few months ago in the Journal of the American Medical Association by Drs. Samuel A. Levine and Bernard Lown, Peter Bent Hospital and Harvard University, Boston.

It is only fair to state that while complete bed rest is the usual treatment in an attack of coronary thrombosis, these physicians state that the sitting position in a chair with feet off the floor prevents a part of the harm of strict bed rest. The prompt improvement shown by some patients desperately ill with congestive heart failure after being placed in a chair is particularly impressive. This method of treatment also appears to have beneficial effects upon the psychological (mental and emotional) state of the patient and facilitates rehabilitation (restoration to health and to work).

In 81 cases of acute coronary thrombosis, Drs. Levine and Lown report 79 patients were kept in chairs for varying and increasing portions of the day, beginning not later than the first week of the attack usually within the first three days. The other two patients started sitting up on the eighth and ninth days.

All the other usual methods of treatment for coronary thrombosis were employed. No complications due to the armchair treatment were observed and no evidence could be found that the armchair treatment was responsible for any of the deaths that occurred during this treatment.

"The sitting position permits gravity to mobilize fluid in the legs, the lying-down position encourages the pooling of fluid in the chest; mobilizing of fluid in legs is practically harmless; pooling of fluid in chest may be disastrous.

"Another problem for the physician is that coronary thrombosis frequently afflicts highly active and previously healthy persons. For such individuals, long-continued bed rest is particularly likely to sap morale, produce anxiety and create a hopeless attitude toward coming back to normal living."

Also, bed rest may cause constipation, pneumonia, lung disturbances, and prostate complications.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

The late Sen. Charles W. Tobey's habit of inserting sharp remarks in debate unlivened stodgy Senate proceedings for many years. One of the New Hampshire senator's last gems came out during debate on the nomination of Glenn L. Emmons of New Mexico as commissioner of Indian Affairs.

Sen. Dennis Chavez (D.-N. Mex.) was delivering a tribute to Mr. Emmons's character. "He has only one bad feature," Senator Chavez concluded. "I say this in all kindness to my Republican friends. He came from a southern Democratic family. When he moved (to New Mexico) he became a banker and a Rebublican . . ."

"That," said Senator Tobey, "is evolution."

Saves President's Time

White House aides have devised a new trick to save President Eisenhower's time during his working day. His staff discovered that the President had a habit of getting interested in conversations with most of his visitors. He would forget other more important business.

Instead of letting visitors into the President's office, some callers are ushered into a conference room and the President comes in to see them. After the time of an appointment has elapsed—the average is about 15 minutes—an aide tells the President he is expected at his desk immediately. It is always easier to get Ike out of the room than it is to ease his visitors out of the President's office.

Dirty Diaper Deal

Rep. John F. Shelley, San Francisco Democrat, has been trying hard to assist one of his constituents who runs a diaper service. The constituent believes tax laws should be changed to allow income tax deductions for diaper service as a medical expense.

"This issue, as I am sure my colleagues in the House will realize, is fraught with complications said Representative Shelley in speaking on the subject. "There are a great many loose ends which must be pinned down . . . before the situation can be cleaned up."

Auto Economy

William D. Mitchell, just confirmed head of the new Small Business Administration, formerly headed the Small Defense Plants Administration, which is now defunct. Mr. Mitchell had been allowed $1400 by Congress to buy an official car for his agency.

Mr. Mitchell went to Edmund F. Mansure, General Services Administration, to buy a government-specification, stripped-down car. Mr. Mansure persuaded Mr. Mitchell that since he was a representative of small business, he should practice economy, to set a good example. Whereupon Mr. Mansure sold him a used four-door sedan which had just been turned in as surplus by the Office of Defense Mobilization. The price was $346.95. The extra $1,053.05 has been turned back to the treasury.

Everybody's Inspired

During a recent meeting of the United Nations Economic and Social Council, a special session was called by Council President Raymond Scheyven of Belgium to observe the signing of the Korean armistice.

"The sacrifice and idealism of those who took up arms will give us the necessary strength to accomplish the work of peace for which some have died and others have suffered or are still suffering," said President Scheyven.

A moment of silence was observed, and then Amazasp A. Arutiunian of the USSR arose and said, "This ideal inspired also the soldiers of the democratic Republic of Korea and the Chinese volunteers."

Cohn Praised

A common contention of the Republicans is that Democrats did nothing to drive Communists and fellow travelers out of government. In fact, some Republicans even go so far as to say Democrats recruited left wingers for government service.

When Sen. Joe McCarthy's youthful investigator Roy Cohn was under attack on the Senate floor, however, the Wisconsin senator came to Cohn's defense with this statement:

"He served in the Department of Justice for five years under Democratic attorneys-general and he received the highest plaudits from the department for his outstanding work in exposing and securing the conviction of Communists."

Acheson Portrait

Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson's portrait hangs in a far, dark corner of a fifth floor corridor at the new State Department building. It's off to the left of the office of Secretary Dulles, in a section of hush-hush conference rooms and offices for his aides.

The Acheson portrait, about two feet by three, was painted last year by Gardner Cox, a Bostoin artist commissioned by the government for the job. This follows custom, under which every cabinet officer has his portrait painted and hung in his department. The standard price is around $2500, paid for out of the contingent funds of each department, without special congressional appropriation.

Most of the other portraits of recent Secretaries of State hang in private offices.

Found in Bali

Dr. Ali Sastroamidjojo, Indonesian ambassador to the United States, recently returned to Washington after a trip to his homeland, but he is going right back again to accept appointment as premier in the new cabinet.

On his last trip to his country, Dr. Ali visited the island of Bali, the tourist paradise famed for its native dancers.

Right in ths middle of a festival he came upon Lawrence W. "Chip" Robert, former Democratic political leader in the F.D.R. days. The two men had never met in Washington, but Robert explained he tried to come to Bali once a year. The round trip air fare, by the way, is about $1500.

New York (AP)—There is a dictionary available today for every language except the language of women.

Scholars think world peace would be speeded if the people of every nation spoke the same language. That's a pretty hard thing to get everybody together on.

It seems to me that the first step would be to get everybody in the same household to speak the same language. That would bring peace in the home.

"Why that's silly," you say. "Everybody in our house speaks the same language—plain old English."

Three Languages

But do they? The average American home today has at least three separate and distinct language dialects. They are man talk, woman talk, and teen-age talk.

All, of course, stem from schoolbook English. But, aside from this mutual ancestry, the three languages have little in common. And no one in a home can understand all three.

Ever listen to a teen-ager on a telephone? Completely mystifying. Every now and then you catch a familiar word or even a complete sentence — such as "Oh, he's a real square." But the words and sentences don't focus into any meaning. They don't make sense, except possibly to another teen-ager, and you can't even be sure of that.

But teen-age talk is really no more important than the pig latin of early childhood. Like pimples, it is merely something the kids go through while growing up.

Real Misunderstanding

The real cause of misunderstanding today is the difference between man talk and woman talk. Basically, man talk means what it says, while woman talk means almost anything in the world but what it says.

This is the real reason why men find women mysterious. They keep expecting a woman's conversation to make sense, when that often is the last thing in the world a woman has in mind when she opens her mouth.

When two men get together and find they have nothing to say they generally shut up. But two women can chat along comfortably for an hour without really saying anything. They both know it, but meanwhile they have had a fine time resting their brains while taking the tension off their vocal chords.

Learns After Marriage

A man usually doesn't realize men and women speak different languages until after he marries. All of a sudden the little bride he thought he knew so well starts talking in Greek.

"How do you like the peas, dear?" she asks. And if he grunts, "Fine, baby," all of a sudden she gets mad. Of course, what her remark really meant was, "Pass me the peas, you big baboon. Don't you see I don't have any?"

Or, leaving a cocktail party, she may say, "Don't you think that tall blonde was quite attractive?" if he replies, "Boy, I'll say she was!—Well, he's deep in the doghouse. What he should have replied was, "Baby, you made that blonde look like a wet mop after a hard day."

Art Is to Know When

The key thing to realize is that you can't take a woman at her word—or you'll never understand her. And, naturally, a man must learn when a woman doesn't want to be understood. Sometimes she wants to be misunderstood. The art is to know when.

Over the years a married man cautiously finds out that anything his wife says has at least three possible means, two of which he can only guess at. But no man lives long enough to comprehend them all.

Guide Would Help

What is needed is a dictionary of woman talk. Each married man could put down all his wife's remarks and then list what he thinks they really mean. By pooling millions of these interpretations some sort of guide would be obtained to the confusing language of women.

Then, if your wife said, "Well, it looks like a nice day," you could thumb hurriedly through your dictionary and find out whether she meant her corns were hurting her or only that she wanted to go for a ride in the country.

NEW WORLD TIES

Dr. Milton Eisenhower, returned from his good will tour and fact-finding mission in South America, said that good relations between the United States and South America are "critically important in the world-wide struggle for the winning of men's minds and allegiances." He said that he was cordially welcomed in every country he visited but that he found "much misunderstanding of the United States, misunderstanding especially of the economic capacity of the United States and an underestimation of the degree of the sacrifices the people of our country have made since 1941."

The trip to the Latin American countries may accomplish a great deal of good. It may alert our officials to the necessity of letting the people of those countries know more about us. The friendship of the Latin American countries is extremely valuable to us and we must let them know that we realize this. We have spent a great deal of time and money trying to win the support of countries in Europe and Asia and it would be foolish to continue neglecting our relations with our neighbors of the New World.

As Dr. Eisenhower pointed out cooperation and harmony between the United States and the republics of South America will not be accomplished by accident or by wishful thinking. We must be prepared to work if we want success. We must be ready to promote programs which will further understanding and develop a mutual respect for each other's customs, traditions and way of life.

President Eisenhower's decision to send his brother as his representative was a wise one. Dr. Eisenhower, from his initial comments on his trip, demonstrated that he was an observant visitor with a keen eye for finding things which need to be corrected. Once he makes a full report a real effort should be made to act on his suggestions.

If the Russians wish to prove that they are sincere about wanting peace in the world why don't they retract their claim that it was a Russian who invented the first wheel?

PRESIDENT DE GASPERI'S FALL

When the Italian voters in June returned Premier De Gasperi's government coalition to power by the narrowest of margins, the peril was recognized. Now that danger is upon us. His downfall is a sad loss for the West.

The United States had no firmer friend in Europe, unless it be Chancellor Adenauer of Germany. De Gasperi brought Italy into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He championed the European Defense Community and every other project for the political and economic union of the continent. And he supported American foreign policy openly and vigorously.

We at home may not fully realize it, but we do not have too many such friends around the world today. For a variety of reasons, some fair and some unfair, American prestige has sunk. Whatever we may think about these judgments, we must still be thankful for friends where we can find them.

De Gasperi is 72 and tired. He may never head another government, though it is possible he might come back if new elections are forced and the center coalition by which he governed is strengthened.

Barring that, about the most we can hope for is that De Gasperi will be named foreign minister in any new government to follow. In that post he would still exert powerful influence for Western causes. But it would not be quite the same. No one expects that some other premier, even though he be of De Gasperi's Christian Democratic Party, would be so stout a champion of America and its aims.

Senator Joseph Kennedy will leave the list of eligible Washington bachelors this fall. Apparently senatorial immunity is no protection against Cupid.

'These Days'

THE SAHARA DESERT

It gives one a queer feeling of a world in constant state of flux to be told that the Sahara Desert is something more than a vast area of sand, traversed by camels ridden by sheiks. Yet, into our modern world, the Saraha moves upon us as a political and economic potential of a high order. It is no longer to be regarded as a desert, but a land of vast and unforetellable possibilities.

The Romans knew something of that and therefore destroyed Carthage. The Mohammedans knew something of that when they conquered the north of Africa from Cairo to Casablanca. But neither Roman nor Arab ever realized how dependent the world would become upon minerals, how the center of political power would be associated with the possession of minerals, that uranium would become more important to the security of a state than gold.

It used to be that the nation that possessed gold was rich. Then coal and iron grew in importance. In this century, copper, lead, zinc, tin uranium vie with coal and iron in economic and political significance. For instance, the United States obtains practically all of its uranium from Africa and Canada which have therefore taken on an altogether new meaning for this country, as our life as a free people depends upon our access to this mineral.

The Sahara is full of minerals and metals. It is a vast region of nearly 6,000,000 square miles or nearly twice the size of the United States. (There is some difference of opinion as to the actual size of the Sahara, depending upon how the territory is calculated.)

Most of the Sahara is controlled by France and may, in the not too distant historic future, became economically more important to France than France itself. In fact, if the French can hold onto the Sahara, particularly to the French protectorates, Tunisia and Morocco, France could be restored to a first-class power which she has not been since 1870. The restoration of France's position could change the balance of power in the world. It could make France the greatest of Western European countries.

The substitution of motorized transportation for the camel and the fiery Arab horse can make all the difference in the development of the Sahara, for, while the camel, horse and nomadic flocks of sheep are picturesque, the tractor, jeep, airplane and automobile will change the face of this continent of sand. Nor will life be so dependent upon the oasis, surrounded by palm trees. Modern machinery can be brought in to find and dig wells, not only for water but for oil which is beginning to appear in quantities. Modern irrigation methods can transform wildernesses into agricultural paradises.

I have recently been looking at some figures showing mineral wealth already produced in this region. It runs to copper, iron, maganese, lead, zinc, tin, sulphur, and coal. Manganese is particularly important because it is not readily available for American steel production and every new find proves valuable. Coal is abundant, rising in Algeria from 17,000 tons in 1930 to about 600,000 tons in 1952. In the Moroccan part of the Sahara valuable anthracite mines are being exploited.

Africa is still looked upon as a dark and unknown continent, but it is nothing of the sort. World War II established its tremendous importance as a base for the defense of our country from any European aggressor. In the event of a war with Russia, the United States will more likely be based on Africa than on any country in Europe and the Sahara Desert will be very important to us. Actually, considerable developments of this nature have already taken place.

That is one reason for the increased interest in that part of the world and the tremendous impetus that has been given to its exploration in recent years.

Another importance of the Sahara is that once modern methods of irrigation are applied, it will be possible to increase the population of the Sahara, transferring large numbers of Europeans, particularly farmers, from those countries that are vexed with surplus populations for which few solutions are at present available. For instance, migrations of Italians, Spaniards, and even Germans to the Saharan countries may be expected in increasing numbers during the next half century. The movement of Europeans to Africa could alter the social complexion of that continent.

That Body of Yours

TREATMENT OF CORONARY THROMBOSIS

I have written before about visiting a veterans' hospital to call on a physician friend who had had an attack of coronary occlusion (heart stroke) and was lying patiently in bed, greatly depressed in spirits. The superintendent of the hospital visited the room and I introduced the two physicians to each other. The superintendent said "What's he got, a coronary?" On learning that this was the case, he said, "Oh, that's nothing. I've had a half dozen coronary attacks, I go to bed for a month, and then come back to work." Naturally, this was cheering news to my friend.

As this lying in bed with nothing to think about but his heart stroke is bound to depress the heart patient, some months ago I described what is called "coronary armchair" treatment for coronary thrombosis which is now being used by many heart specialists in both hospital and private practice.

It might be well for the sake of the morale of these patients if they were given this treatment; it would give hope and assurance. I am therefore repeating some of the facts about coronary armchair therapy as given a few months ago in the Journal of the American Medical Association by Drs. Samuel A. Levine and Bernard Lown, Peter Bent Hospital and Harvard University, Boston.

It is only fair to state that while complete bed rest is the usual treatment in an attack of coronary thrombosis, these physicians state that the sitting position in a chair with feet off the floor prevents a part of the harm of strict bed rest. The prompt improvement shown by some patients desperately ill with congestive heart failure after being placed in a chair is particularly impressive. This method of treatment also appears to have beneficial effects upon the psychological (mental and emotional) state of the patient and facilitates rehabilitation (restoration to health and to work).

In 81 cases of acute coronary thrombosis, Drs. Levine and Lown report 79 patients were kept in chairs for varying and increasing portions of the day, beginning not later than the first week of the attack usually within the first three days. The other two patients started sitting up on the eighth and ninth days.

All the other usual methods of treatment for coronary thrombosis were employed. No complications due to the armchair treatment were observed and no evidence could be found that the armchair treatment was responsible for any of the deaths that occurred during this treatment.

"The sitting position permits gravity to mobilize fluid in the legs, the lying-down position encourages the pooling of fluid in the chest; mobilizing of fluid in legs is practically harmless; pooling of fluid in chest may be disastrous.

"Another problem for the physician is that coronary thrombosis frequently afflicts highly active and previously healthy persons. For such individuals, long-continued bed rest is particularly likely to sap morale, produce anxiety and create a hopeless attitude toward coming back to normal living."

Also, bed rest may cause constipation, pneumonia, lung disturbances, and prostate complications.

Found in Bali

Dr. Ali Sastroamidjojo, Indonesian ambassador to the United States, recently returned to Washington after a trip to his homeland, but he is going right back again to accept appointment as premier in the new cabinet.

On his last trip to his country, Dr. Ali visited the island of Bali, the tourist paradise famed for its native dancers.

Right in ths middle of a festival he came upon Lawrence W. "Chip" Robert, former Democratic political leader in the F.D.R. days. The two men had never met in Washington, but Robert explained he tried to come to Bali once a year. The round trip air fare, by the way, is about $1500.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—There is a dictionary available today for every language except the language of women.

Scholars think world peace would be speeded if the people of every nation spoke the same language. That's a pretty hard thing to get everybody together on.

It seems to me that the first step would be to get everybody in the same household to speak the same language. That would bring peace in the home.

"Why that's silly," you say. "Everybody in our house speaks the same language—plain old English."

Three Languages

But do they? The average American home today has at least three separate and distinct language dialects. They are man talk, woman talk, and teen-age talk.

All, of course, stem from schoolbook English. But, aside from this mutual ancestry, the three languages have little in common. And no one in a home can understand all three.

Ever listen to a teen-ager on a telephone? Completely mystifying. Every now and then you catch a familiar word or even a complete sentence — such as "Oh, he's a real square." But the words and sentences don't focus into any meaning. They don't make sense, except possibly to another teen-ager, and you can't even be sure of that.

But teen-age talk is really no more important than the pig latin of early childhood. Like pimples, it is merely something the kids go through while growing up.

Real Misunderstanding

The real cause of misunderstanding today is the difference between man talk and woman talk. Basically, man talk means what it says, while woman talk means almost anything in the world but what it says.

This is the real reason why men find women mysterious. They keep expecting a woman's conversation to make sense, when that often is the last thing in the world a woman has in mind when she opens her mouth.

When two men get together and find they have nothing to say they generally shut up. But two women can chat along comfortably for an hour without really saying anything. They both know it, but meanwhile they have had a fine time resting their brains while taking the tension off their vocal chords.

Learns After Marriage

A man usually doesn't realize men and women speak different languages until after he marries. All of a sudden the little bride he thought he knew so well starts talking in Greek.

"How do you like the peas, dear?" she asks. And if he grunts, "Fine, baby," all of a sudden she gets mad. Of course, what her remark really meant was, "Pass me the peas, you big baboon. Don't you see I don't have any?"

Or, leaving a cocktail party, she may say, "Don't you think that tall blonde was quite attractive?" if he replies, "Boy, I'll say she was!—Well, he's deep in the doghouse. What he should have replied was, "Baby, you made that blonde look like a wet mop after a hard day."

Art Is to Know When

The key thing to realize is that you can't take a woman at her word—or you'll never understand her. And, naturally, a man must learn when a woman doesn't want to be understood. Sometimes she wants to be misunderstood. The art is to know when.

Over the years a married man cautiously finds out that anything his wife says has at least three possible means, two of which he can only guess at. But no man lives long enough to comprehend them all.

Guide Would Help

What is needed is a dictionary of woman talk. Each married man could put down all his wife's remarks and then list what he thinks they really mean. By pooling millions of these interpretations some sort of guide would be obtained to the confusing language of women.

Then, if your wife said, "Well, it looks like a nice day," you could thumb hurriedly through your dictionary and find out whether she meant her corns were hurting her or only that she wanted to go for a ride in the country.

Asks $575,000

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Puppeteer Frank Paris, who says he is the creator of "Howdy Doody" and is suing the National Broadcasting Co. for unauthorized use of the puppet, has hiked his claim for damages to $575,000. Paris filed the new claim in Federal Court yesterday, amending an earlier suit for $200,000. The 39-year-old puppet maker said NBC dropped him in 1948 and has been exploiting "Howdy Doody" and two other puppets, "Mr. Huff" and "Eustace," both commercially and on television, without permission.

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, Children Are People, etc.)

TO THE TOOTHPICK USERS

A letter this morning says: "We have some very good friends who dine with us quite often, and we with them. The husband, who is a wonderful person in every respect, has a habit of taking out a toothpick when the meal is over and sits there with his mouth wide open, picking his teeth. This is revolting to everyone else at the table. Will you please tell me how we can effect a cure without losing their friendship?"

I'm very sorry but I don't think you can.

Tipping

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been invited to spend several days with a friend of mine. She lives in a lovely big house and has two maids. I would like to know if it is customary to tip them. If so, do I hand them the money as I am leaving, or shall I put it in an envelope and leave it in my room?

Answer: Yes, it is customary to tip the maids in a house when you have stayed overnight. You hand it to them just before you leave.

Looking at Guest Book

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it bad manners, after writing one's name in a guest book to glance through the other pages and read the names, or is a book like this too private to take it for granted this way?

Answer: If there's no line waiting to sign it, you certainly can look at it.

Leaving Table

Dear Mrs. Post: At a big dinner party, should the hostess be called away from the table to answer an important telephone call, should all the men at the table rise?

Answer: She should leave as quickly as possible, return as quietly and as quickly as possible without their noticing.

Opening lead—♣ 4

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Today's hand is taken from the finals of last year's National Team Championships. The irrepressible Johnny Crawford thought it was a good time to open the bidding with a shutout bid. He knew that somebody had a good hand, and he wanted to plague that player.

He succeeded, but the plagued player was his own partner—B. Jay Becker. Jay studied the hand for a full minute by the clock (it seemed like an hour at the time), and then bid six hearts.

West had to guess at the opening lead and happened to fish out the four of clubs. A diamond opening lead would have set the contract immediately, since East could have taken two diamond tricks.

With the actual club lead, however, South made his slam by drawing trumps and discarding two diamonds—one on the ace of clubs, and one on the dummy's last spade.

You might wonder how it is that two of the best players in the country happen to get a contract that can be defeated by the right opening lead. Don't sniff too hard at the slam contract, since after all it was actually fulfilled. Strangely enough it's a good contract.

If you took the twenty-six East-West cards, shuffled them, and dealt them out about a hundred times, South would make the slam in something like sixty to seventy cases. The slam would be a reasonable contract if South made it only about fifty times out of a hundred cases.

Forget about the actual East-West holdings, and do some general reasoning. If the opening lead is a spade, you are a strong favorite to make four spade tricks—and therefore the slam.

If the opening lead is a club, you may set up dummy's jack by ruffing or you may develop four spade tricks. If the spades and clubs fail to develop, you can lead a diamond towards dummy in the hope that West has the ace.

If the opening lead is a diamond, you must play low from the dummy in the hope that West has led from the queen. ((He would not be likely to underlead the ace.) You are set immediately if East has both ace and queen of diamonds — provided that West then leads the suit. The odds are against each of these possibilities and very much against both taking place.

The situation would be very different if North bid the hand "scientifically." Then the chance of a diamond opening lead would be greatly increased, and the slam would not be a particularly good shot.

Attorney Says State Sex Laws Are Antiquated

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Sex laws in New York state are "ridiculous and unenforceable," Attorney Robert Viet Sherwin told law enforcement officers Friday.

Speaking at a New York University Institute on modern law enforcement, Sherwin said the present "diversified and antiquated" sex laws are undermining efforts to control real sex crimes.

Sherwin, author of "Sex and the Statutory Law," said all sex laws should be based upon these fundamentals:

That sex is a crime only where assault is involved, when it is carried on in public, or when children are involved. All other cases, he said, should be private matters and not held illegal.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Going back in the Kingston City Directory of 1915-16, one is naturally attracted to familiar names. I see there were some 29 male and female teachers at the new high school, as it was called in the book. Charles K. Moulton, BS, was principal. Some of the teachers from that list which later taught me were: Henrietta L. Manning, Mary E. Noone, Mary E. Hussey, Kate Walton (famous for her Hall A). Although I never had Marguerite R. Cordes for languages, still she was friendly with all the students. I had Rose K. Witter for history. I think May E. Davis taught cooking, as I tried a term of it at night high school. Margaret McCullough taught algebra. Ada S. Fuller, Latin. Ethel M. Hull, English.

School No. 3 at the time had Patrick H. Cullen as principal and the following teachers who I remember: Annie Thompson, who became Mrs. Cullen later; Helen G. Terwilliger, Sadie B. Boyd, Frances J. Deichelmann, who taught at School No. 13, at Port Ewen before that and Mollie B. Cullen, Ida Mufson and Catherine Murray.

You wouldn't believe it but in those days there were some nine moving picture houses in Kingston, starting from the Bijou Theatre up at 326 Wall street. The Kingston Opera House was at 285 Fair street and Julius Stone had a moving picture house at 43 N. Front street. There was the Broadway Aerodrome at East O'Reilly street and the Broadway Casino at 521 Broadway. The Star was at 562 Broadway. Downtown there was the New Orpheum at 105 Broadway and Lyric Theatre at 34 East Strand. Further down was Kingston Point Park, where they showed movies too.

It is sad to read the list of steamboat companies which serviced the people of this locality at the time. Henry Blodgett had the yacht, Elihu Bunker, which went from Rondout to Glasco from foot of Broadway. Of course there was the Central Hudson Steamboat Co., at 36 Ferry street which carried mostly freight for stores and wholesalers of Kingston. Edwin B. Gardner had the yacht, E. B. Gardner, which ran from Rondout to Poughkeepsie also from the dock off foot of Broadway. Christopher Haber gave us nice rides for a few pennies on his C. A. Schultz yacht, which went back and forth from Kingston or Rondout to Eddyville. Many a Sunday my father took me for a boat ride on the Schultz. Of course the Hudson River Day Line, which docked its magnificent boats at the Kingston Point dock, brought thousands to the park and Kingston. The Mary Powell Steamboat Co. docked the famous Queen of the Hudson at 6 Broadway.

Another big change has come about in the shoe repair line. Back in 1915 there were some 36 shoe repair shops from uptown to downtown. Now there are only some 18 as taken from the 1950 directory. Among the list of physicians and surgeons I am surprised to see how few from that list are practicing in Kingston in 1950. I find only Dr. William J. Cranston at the same address of 175 Clinton avenue. In 1915 there were some 52 physicians in that list and in 1950 some 65 are listed. Over a period of 35 years only Dr. Cranston remained on the 1950 list as well as the 1915 list of physicians and surgeons.

Two Steal Tokens, Cash

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Almost $15 worth of transit tokens were stolen early today along with an equal amount of cash, by two Negroes who held up a change booth agent in the Lexington avenue IRT subway station at 138th street and Grand Concourse, the Bronx, police reported. The agent, William Brown, of 428 East 137th street, the Bronx, told police the holdup men ripped out the telephone before fleeing.

Finds 30-Pound Bass

Glen Cove, Aug. 8 (AP)—Here's another fish story: Mrs. John Petroski, walking along the beach yesterday, saw a fishing line snagged on a rock. She pulled in 20 feet of line. At the end was a 30-pound striped bass. The fish had swallowed a 1½ pound bunker spoon. Mrs. Petroski knows about such spoons. Her husband sells fishing tackle at a local store.

Gold Flows From U. S. as Others Up Nations' Supply

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Gold continues to flow out of the United States as other nations—notably Britain and western Germany—build up their stores of gold and dollars.

This country lost another 50 million dollars worth of gold in the week ending August 5. Foreign countries have drawn down our gold stock by more than one billon dollars since December.

We still have $22,227,265,689.78 worth, however, and no one is worrying, even if that is about 1¼ billion lower than this time last year.

More newly mined gold is also being taken by other countries for their reserves.

The increasing health of these foreign gold and dollar reserves has been stimulated greatly by U. S. economic aid. Some argue that many other countries are doing so much better financially now that they could stand alone if U. S. economic aid should be withdrawn.

Others says the reserves are still too slim and would quickly be under pressure if all forms of U. S. government spending abroad should cease.

Buys Supplies Too

Outright economic aid is only part of this spending. The U. S. government also buys supplies and services from other nations for its military forces, in addition to direct military aid, and still buys war-essential raw materials for its stockpile.

Western European countries are also generally improving their trade balances—their exports showing money gains as their imports are held down.

The National Foreign Trade Council has estimated that this year might show a gain of 2 or 2½ billion dollars in other nations' gold and dollar reserves, on the basis of transactions with the United States alone.

Latin American countries aren't as happily placed as some of the Europeans. Most of the lands south of the border aren't adding to their reserves.

One big trouble is that prices of the things they export have been falling more than the prices of the goods they import. As a result, to pay for the same amount of imports they would have to export more.

Invest in Securities

In addition to the gold that other countries have been getting from the United States as their trade improved, they have also been investing in U. S. securities.

The U. S. Treasury reported that at the end of April foreign-owned short term dollar assets topped the nine billion dollar mark for the first time. These assets have continued to grow since then, the National City Bank of New York believes.

The bank cautions, however, against over-rating the build-up in foreign reserves and over-optimism in looking for an early return to making U. S. dollars and foreign currencies freely convertible. Any upset in the world trade picture could swallow up the reserves that back these currencies.

The international monetary fund points out: "No amount of reserves can be adequate to finance a chronic or continuing imbalance in a country's payments."

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York says: "General currency convertibility will depend upon progress toward a better pattern of production and trade, not only among the European countries, but also between them and the rest of the world."

Convertibility should begin at home, in the opinion of the Economists' National Committee on monetary policy. It urges Washington to "take prompt steps to make our currency redeemable in gold at the statutory rate of $35 per fine ounce."

That means, if you took a $5 bill to the treasury you'd get a $5 gold piece for it—something you haven't been able to do for many years. The committee thinks that would cure most of our fiscal ills, including inflation and the unbalanced budget.

Says Shrubbery Helps

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—A traffic expert says trees and landscaping help to sound-proof express highways ando reduce nervous tension of auto drivers. Robert Moses, city construction coordinator, describing yesterday the results of planting along parkways here, said: "Landscaping absorbs considerable noise  both car passengers and nearby residents benefit equally."

Asks $575,000

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Puppeteer Frank Paris, who says he is the creator of "Howdy Doody" and is suing the National Broadcasting Co. for unauthorized use of the puppet, has hiked his claim for damages to $575,000. Paris filed the new claim in Federal Court yesterday, amending an earlier suit for $200,000. The 39-year-old puppet maker said NBC dropped him in 1948 and has been exploiting "Howdy Doody" and two other puppets, "Mr. Huff" and "Eustace," both commercially and on television, without permission.

Good Taste Today

TO THE TOOTHPICK USERS

A letter this morning says: "We have some very good friends who dine with us quite often, and we with them. The husband, who is a wonderful person in every respect, has a habit of taking out a toothpick when the meal is over and sits there with his mouth wide open, picking his teeth. This is revolting to everyone else at the table. Will you please tell me how we can effect a cure without losing their friendship?"

I'm very sorry but I don't think you can.

Tipping

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been invited to spend several days with a friend of mine. She lives in a lovely big house and has two maids. I would like to know if it is customary to tip them. If so, do I hand them the money as I am leaving, or shall I put it in an envelope and leave it in my room?

Answer: Yes, it is customary to tip the maids in a house when you have stayed overnight. You hand it to them just before you leave.

Looking at Guest Book

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it bad manners, after writing one's name in a guest book to glance through the other pages and read the names, or is a book like this too private to take it for granted this way?

Answer: If there's no line waiting to sign it, you certainly can look at it.

Leaving Table

Dear Mrs. Post: At a big dinner party, should the hostess be called away from the table to answer an important telephone call, should all the men at the table rise?

Answer: She should leave as quickly as possible, return as quietly and as quickly as possible without their noticing.

Opening lead—♣ 4

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Today's hand is taken from the finals of last year's National Team Championships. The irrepressible Johnny Crawford thought it was a good time to open the bidding with a shutout bid. He knew that somebody had a good hand, and he wanted to plague that player.

He succeeded, but the plagued player was his own partner—B. Jay Becker. Jay studied the hand for a full minute by the clock (it seemed like an hour at the time), and then bid six hearts.

West had to guess at the opening lead and happened to fish out the four of clubs. A diamond opening lead would have set the contract immediately, since East could have taken two diamond tricks.

With the actual club lead, however, South made his slam by drawing trumps and discarding two diamonds—one on the ace of clubs, and one on the dummy's last spade.

You might wonder how it is that two of the best players in the country happen to get a contract that can be defeated by the right opening lead. Don't sniff too hard at the slam contract, since after all it was actually fulfilled. Strangely enough it's a good contract.

If you took the twenty-six East-West cards, shuffled them, and dealt them out about a hundred times, South would make the slam in something like sixty to seventy cases. The slam would be a reasonable contract if South made it only about fifty times out of a hundred cases.

Forget about the actual East-West holdings, and do some general reasoning. If the opening lead is a spade, you are a strong favorite to make four spade tricks—and therefore the slam.

If the opening lead is a club, you may set up dummy's jack by ruffing or you may develop four spade tricks. If the spades and clubs fail to develop, you can lead a diamond towards dummy in the hope that West has the ace.

If the opening lead is a diamond, you must play low from the dummy in the hope that West has led from the queen. (He would not be likely to underlead the ace.) You are set immediately if East has both ace and queen of diamonds — provided that West then leads the suit. The odds are against each of these possibilities and very much against both taking place.

The situation would be very different if North bid the hand "scientifically." Then the chance of a diamond opening lead would be greatly increased, and the slam would not be a particularly good shot.

Attorney Says State Sex Laws Are Antiquated

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Sex laws in New York state are "ridiculous and unenforceable," Attorney Robert Viet Sherwin told law enforcement officers Friday.

Speaking at a New York University Institute on modern law enforcement, Sherwin said the present "diversified and antiquated" sex laws are undermining efforts to control real sex crimes.

Sherwin, author of "Sex and the Statutory Law," said all sex laws should be based upon these fundamentals:

That sex is a crime only where assault is involved, when it is carried on in public, or when children are involved. All other cases, he said, should be private matters and not held illegal.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Going back in the Kingston City Directory of 1915-16, one is naturally attracted to familiar names. I see there were some 29 male and female teachers at the new high school, as it was called in the book. Charles K. Moulton, BS, was principal. Some of the teachers from that list which later taught me were: Henrietta L. Manning, Mary E. Noone, Mary E. Hussey, Kate Walton (famous for her Hall A). Although I never had Marguerite R. Cordes for languages, still she was friendly with all the students. I had Rose K. Witter for history. I think May E. Davis taught cooking, as I tried a term of it at night high school. Margaret McCullough taught algebra. Ada S. Fuller, Latin. Ethel M. Hull, English.

School No. 3 at the time had Patrick H. Cullen as principal and the following teachers who I remember: Annie Thompson, who became Mrs. Cullen later; Helen G. Terwilliger, Sadie B. Boyd, Frances J. Deichelmann, who taught at School No. 13, at Port Ewen before that and Mollie B. Cullen, Ida Mufson and Catherine Murray.

You wouldn't believe it but in those days there were some nine moving picture houses in Kingston, starting from the Bijou Theatre up at 326 Wall street. The Kingston Opera House was at 285 Fair street and Julius Stone had a moving picture house at 43 N. Front street. There was the Broadway Aerodrome at East O'Reilly street and the Broadway Casino at 521 Broadway. The Star was at 562 Broadway. Downtown there was the New Orpheum at 105 Broadway and Lyric Theatre at 34 East Strand. Further down was Kingston Point Park, where they showed movies too.

It is sad to read the list of steamboat companies which serviced the people of this locality at the time. Henry Blodgett had the yacht, Elihu Bunker, which went from Rondout to Glasco from foot of Broadway. Of course there was the Central Hudson Steamboat Co., at 36 Ferry street which carried mostly freight for stores and wholesalers of Kingston. Edwin B. Gardner had the yacht, E. B. Gardner, which ran from Rondout to Poughkeepsie also from the dock off foot of Broadway. Christopher Haber gave us nice rides for a few pennies on his C. A. Schultz yacht, which went back and forth from Kingston or Rondout to Eddyville. Many a Sunday my father took me for a boat ride on the Schultz. Of course the Hudson River Day Line, which docked its magnificent boats at the Kingston Point dock, brought thousands to the park and Kingston. The Mary Powell Steamboat Co. docked the famous Queen of the Hudson at 6 Broadway.

Another big change has come about in the shoe repair line. Back in 1915 there were some 36 shoe repair shops from uptown to downtown. Now there are only some 18 as taken from the 1950 directory. Among the list of physicians and surgeons I am surprised to see how few from that list are practicing in Kingston in 1950. I find only Dr. William J. Cranston at the same address of 175 Clinton avenue. In 1915 there were some 52 physicians in that list and in 1950 some 65 are listed. Over a period of 35 years only Dr. Cranston remained on the 1950 list as well as the 1915 list of physicians and surgeons.

Gold Flows From U. S. as Others Up Nations' Supply

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Gold continues to flow out of the United States as other nations—notably Britain and western Germany—build up their stores of gold and dollars.

This country lost another 50 million dollars worth of gold in the week ending August 5. Foreign countries have drawn down our gold stock by more than one billon dollars since December.

We still have $22,227,265,689.78 worth, however, and no one is worrying, even if that is about 1¼ billion lower than this time last year.

More newly mined gold is also being taken by other countries for their reserves.

The increasing health of these foreign gold and dollar reserves has been stimulated greatly by U. S. economic aid. Some argue that many other countries are doing so much better financially now that they could stand alone if U. S. economic aid should be withdrawn.

Others says the reserves are still too slim and would quickly be under pressure if all forms of U. S. government spending abroad should cease.

Buys Supplies Too

Outright economic aid is only part of this spending. The U. S. government also buys supplies and services from other nations for its military forces, in addition to direct military aid, and still buys war-essential raw materials for its stockpile.

Western European countries are also generally improving their trade balances—their exports showing money gains as their imports are held down.

The National Foreign Trade Council has estimated that this year might show a gain of 2 or 2½ billion dollars in other nations' gold and dollar reserves, on the basis of transactions with the United States alone.

Latin American countries aren't as happily placed as some of the Europeans. Most of the lands south of the border aren't adding to their reserves.

One big trouble is that prices of the things they export have been falling more than the prices of the goods they import. As a result, to pay for the same amount of imports they would have to export more.

Invest in Securities

In addition to the gold that other countries have been getting from the United States as their trade improved, they have also been investing in U. S. securities.

The U. S. Treasury reported that at the end of April foreign-owned short term dollar assets topped the nine billion dollar mark for the first time. These assets have continued to grow since then, the National City Bank of New York believes.

The bank cautions, however, against over-rating the build-up in foreign reserves and over-optimism in looking for an early return to making U. S. dollars and foreign currencies freely convertible. Any upset in the world trade picture could swallow up the reserves that back these currencies.

The international monetary fund points out: "No amount of reserves can be adequate to finance a chronic or continuing imbalance in a country's payments."

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York says: "General currency convertibility will depend upon progress toward a better pattern of production and trade, not only among the European countries, but also between them and the rest of the world."

Convertibility should begin at home, in the opinion of the Economists' National Committee on monetary policy. It urges Washington to "take prompt steps to make our currency redeemable in gold at the statutory rate of $35 per fine ounce."

That means, if you took a $5 bill to the treasury you'd get a $5 gold piece for it—something you haven't been able to do for many years. The committee thinks that would cure most of our fiscal ills, including inflation and the unbalanced budget.

Says Shrubbery Helps

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—A traffic expert says trees and landscaping help to sound-proof express highways ando reduce nervous tension of auto drivers. Robert Moses, city construction coordinator, describing yesterday the results of planting along parkways here, said: "Landscaping absorbs considerable noise  both car passengers and nearby residents benefit equally."

Recreation Baseball League Makes Debut Sunday at Stadium

Baseball Comedy Kings Have Best Team on Road

Jerry Young, Ace Comedian, Is Due

Those merry madcaps of baseball, led by their inimitable first baseman, Jerry Young, will be at municipal stadium tonight for the first local showing.

It's the Georgia Chain Gang, the finest comic outfit on the road, against the Kingston Colonials. Game time is 8:30 p. m.

Superb players and topnotch comics, the Georgia Chain Gang will feature a host of former minor league stars and Ronnie Perry, the great Holy Cross pitcher of the 1953 season.

Manager Fred Davi's Colonials are expected to introduce their Hudson valley tournament lineup with Clark Mains as starting hurler.

Several of the Georgia Chain Gang players have had Triple A experience. They are performing for their third year, outstanding successors to the famed Detroit Clowns.

The brunt of the comedy routine is carried by Young, who is a marvel around first base. He is ably assisted by Pete Cerrone, veteran pitcher, and Johnny Dunphy. They have several acts of pantomine, freak defensive alignments and other laugh producers.

Two-Year Record

In 1952, the "Chain Gang" scored 78 wins in 81 games and played a tie. They defeated the formidable Valley Field Braves of Canada before 31,000 fans at Fenway Park.

In 1951, their second year of operation, the Comedy Kings chalked up 85 wins and 6 losses. A nationwide barnstorming outfit, they attract record breaking crowds wherever they play.

Tonight's game will be the fourth of the season under Fred Davi's promotion. His City League All Stars defeated Waterbury and Jersey City Cardinals in extra innings before bowing to the Boston Hobos.

The game is the last independent attraction of the season at municipal stadium. A week from tonight, Aug. 15, the Colonials start the Hudson valley championship against Poughkeepsie.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By JOE STETSON
(Dog Editor)

"A pointing dog born with a bobtail," mused Chris.

"What's the answer to this one?"

Chris was working on the daily "Know Your Sports" series in the evening paper. This time the columnist had come up with a dog quiz containing such things as: What breed is required to have double dewclaws? What breed has the hair growing forward along the backbone? And the like.

Brittany Spaniel is the answer to that one.

"But this says pointing dog and you say spaniel," objected Chris. "Spaniels are not pointing dogs."

No, most spaniels are flushing dogs, but the Brittany points and most of them are natural bobtails. If their tails are longer than four inches they are docked as in other spaniels.

Here is a general description of the Brittany. You're going to see more and more of them so you'd better know what they look like and how they work.

Brittanys are white dogs with orange-red patches and head markings. They are rangier than springers although about the weight of a heavy English springer. Their leginess gives them greater speed and ground covering ability. If they weren't bred to point, they'd work too wide for flushing dogs.

A big Brittany is comparable to a small setter in size, but only the lively, intense type of small setter can stay with them. They finish quite easily and can be trained to work closer to the gun than most pointers.

They make good grouse and woodcock dogs when they've had some experience with these birds and they can do a good job on pheasant.

They're good quail dogs but, although there are some exceptions, they should be limited to hunting on foot and they are especially well equipped to handle singles.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The answer to that recent blast against Little League by a national magazine is best expressed throughout the nation by parents, clergymen and police officers who know by experience that when Little League comes in, delinquency goes out.

The editors could have gotten their answer Wednesday night at Little League stadium when nearly 1500 persons stormed the area for the District 3 finals between Town of Esopus and Poughkeepsie.

Anything that can arouse the American public—friends, families and relatives—to such wholesome recreation and entertainment is here to stay. A couple of kids did flub some crucial plays but nobody got hurt. It was a terrific show and a credit to the small fry who played championship ball before a huge gathering.

Officials of Little League Baseball, Inc., at Williamsport have taken the article so seriously that they released a special memorandum to all Little League personnel, refuting the claims and terming the article "unfair and inconsiderate."

- Flotsam and Jetsam:

Town of Esopus Legion and the small fry of that village across the bridge bathed themselves with glory. All the more remarkable was their achievement when you consider that in 1952—their first year of operation—they were unable to field a sanctioned league. A 4-team circuit poses a tough problem for a community the size of Port Ewen. There is some talk that the Esopus league will be reduced to three teams in 1954, with the graduates of the 1953 circuit forming a sixth team for the Fraternal Youth League. The Esopus kids appeared to be the best schooled squad in the tournament, defensively. They made outfield cutoffs, especially Charlie Turner, with professional finesse. Al MacIntosh, the pitcher who played first and was a hitting hero for Esopus, made two brilliant throws in the preliminary games to cut down runners attempting to go from first to third on an infield out. It reminded us of the time we sat with Fresco Thompson, Dodger scout, at municipal stadium watching a team go through infield practice. At one point, after the first baseman had whipped the ball to third, Thompson observed: "That's the most useless defensive play in baseball. How many times do you see it happen? Frankly, we never saw it happen until young MacIntosh did it twice in one tournament.

- Of Men and Mice:

Never saw a better LL performance than Richie Wenzel's third basing against Saugerties. Kingston can expect more serious opposition from Esopus and Saugerties next season. Bill Thomas, Jr., should be the big pitcher in the Kingston loop. Old timers cropping up at City League games, a sure sign that the Old Timers game isn't too far off . . . Sunday, Sept. 12, as a matter of fact. Saugerties and Kingston delegations get together at Jack Dawkins' tavern Monday night to iron out details. If you want real laughs and good baseball in one package, municipal stadium tonight is the place to see it. Mechanically, the Georgia Chain Gang is the greatest outfit since Buster Kenny's Detroit Clowns. Harlem Valley's Little Bigger League team will meet Burlington, N. J., in the Section 2 tournament finals at Poughkeepsie on Aug. 15. Biggest craze of the 1953 sports season has been the number of outboard regattas. Difference between the Kingston Power Boat Association's regatta and the others in the area is a big one. Entries in the KPBA regatta drive "racing" boats; others are stock model regattas.

Cliff Miller of Kingston wrapped up another outboard regatta victory in the recent Hudson meet. Billy Ostrom, the ageless southpaw, is pitching brilliantly for the Poughkeepsie All Stars and will be seen in the forthcoming round robin series. Jim Lawson of Newburgh is another standout. Fred Davi had better have Clark Mains in shape for that series. Lou Schafer, who rates as an expert on the subject, rates Gil Kelder, Jr., of Rosendale a polished swimmer and says "with constant practice and coaching he should go places." Kelder's crawl stroke and flutter kick are exception, Schafer says. The Braves' success story in Milwaukee is proof, perhaps, that more league teams should see more of the country.

Floyd W. Flint, president of the Twaalfskill Club, has been named director of the first annual Ulster County Seniors golf tournament which will be played at Twaalfskill on Sunday, Oct. 3.

Designation of Flint as tournament director was made at a recent meeting attended by representatives of all area golf clubs.

The tournament will be a one-day affair of 18 holes with players using their full club handicap. There will be five classes as follows:

Class A—70 years and over.
Class B—65 to 69.
Class C—60 to 64.
Class D—55 to 59.
Class E—50 to 54.

Class A entries will play only nine holes and the winner of this division will be recognized as the 1953 Ulster Seniors champion. First place winners in each division will receive appropriate prizes.

Gardner Secretary

Ralph E. Gardner, of Wiltwyck, who has served as secretary-treasurer of the Father Herdegen Memorial tournament, was named secretary. Wilson C. Ingalls of Wiltwyck will serve as treasurer.

Serving on the official tournament committee will be Frederick J. K. Ertel of Twaalfskill; Anthony DeLisio, president of the Woodstock Country Club; Maurice Davenport, Wiltwyck; and Julian Raper, Ellenville.

Members of the committee recommended a $5 entry fee for the tournament.

Entry blanks will be available at all area golf clubs in the near future.

Attending the organization meeting of the Seniors tournament were Floyd W. Flint and Alex Gerlak of Twaalfskill; Ralph E. Gardner and Wilson C. Ingalls of Wiltwyck; and J. Carson Hutchins and Allen Waterous of Woodstock.

Shawangunk Country Club of Ellenville was not represented but Julian Raper, tournament chairman, sent word that Shawangunk would compete.

The SCOREBOARD

(By The Associated Press)

By BEN PHLEGAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

More and more it looks as if the Chicago White Sox are going to need outside help if they hope to overhaul the fast moving New York Yankees.

The Sox went into today's doubleheader in New York trailinb the world champions by six games. After today the clubs meet only six more times.

Where the Sox can find that outside help is another question since so far this season they are the only club that has as much as broken even with Casey Stengel's crew.

After yesterday's 6-1 victory by the Yankees the season's series stood even at seven games each.

It looked for awhile is if the Sox were going to jump off to a comfortable margin in the second inning of the first contest when with one out they pounded Eddie Lopat for three straight hits, a double and two singles. But the attack netted only one run as a squeeze play failed. The Yankees settled the issue in the very next inning.

Lopat started it with a single. Joe Collins walked and when Minnie Minoso missed a quick cutoff on Mickey Mantle's liner to left center, the fleet-footed Yankee circled the bases as fast as you can say "when do they start selling World Series tickets." Yogi Berra, the next man up, made the runs look legitimate by poking the ball into the right field seats. Billy Martin homered with one aboard in the eighth.

Yanks Gain a Game

The Yankees gained another full game over the third place Cleveland Indians who bowed to Boston 4-2. Brilliant fielding by Jim Piersall and relief pitching by Ellis Kinder saved Mel Parnell's 15th victory. Philadelphia edged Detroit 3-1 in one of the fastest games of the year, an hour and 42 minutes, and Connie Marrero of Washington shut out St. Louis on three hits 12-0.

In the National League the Brooklyn Dodgers maintained their 7½ game lead over Milwaukee as all of the first division teams triumphed. The Dodgers trounced Cincinnati 9-4. Milwaukee whipped Pittsburgh 9-2, Philadelphia nosed out Chicago 5-4 and St. Louis handed New York its 10th loss in 13 games 2-1.

Parnell's victory over Cleveland was his first against the Indians at Fenway Park in almost four years. He drove in three of the runs but needed help from Kinder in the seventh when he got himself in trouble on his own poor fielding.

Interrupted by Rain

The Brooklyn game at Cincinnati was interrupted for 42 minutes by rain in the middle of the sixth inning but it didn't rain hard enough to help the Redlegs. The Dodgers had just scored three runs and led 3-2 when time was called. If no further play had been possible the three runs would have been washed out and the Reds would have won 2-0 on Andy Seminick's two run homer in the fifth.

As it was the Dodgers added one in the seventh on Duke Snider's homer, four more in the eighth including a three run drive by Carl Furillo and a final tally in the ninth.

Stan Musial got the Cards off in front against New York with a first inning home run. After the Giants tied it in the fourth the Cardinals pushed across the winning run in the bottom of the fourth with a double by Ray Jablonski and a single by Steve Bilko.

The Phillies are 9½ games behind the Dodgers but they play like champions when they encounter the Cubs. Their triumph yesterday was their 13th in 14 meetings. Ralph Kiner hit his 27th homer for Chicago.

Vern Bickford, one of the few Braves who didn't show immediate improvement in the move from Boston to Milwaukee, turned in a five hitter in his first start since June 24.

Blocked Out at Plate

Direct Rhythm Wins at Roosevelt

Westbury, Aug. 8 (AP)—Direct Rhythm, owned by W. G. Reynolds of Louisville, Ky., scored a half length victory over Prince Jay last night in the $10,000 Jericho Pace, feature of the Grand Circuit meeting at Roosevelt Raceway.

Direct Rhythm, the fastest living pacer with a 1:56.1 mile, came from fifth place on the backstretch to pass pace-setting Red Sails and then withstood a late rush by Prince Jay. Guinea Gold, who broke stride at the start, came back to take third. The time for the mile was 2:01.4.

Driven by Del Miller, Direct Rhythm returned $4.80 for $2. The victory was worth $5,000 to Reynolds and boosted Direct Rhythm's 1953 earnings to $40,994.

Woolsey, Houghtaling Are Probable Starters

The newly organized Recreation Baseball League will make its debut Sunday at 6 p. m. at municipal stadium, with the Veterans of Foreign Wars meeting Hercules.

The league is for boys 15 to 18 years of age.

League director Harry L. "Pop" Edson said league officials are not concerned by the rather late start of the new circuit.

"We're at least getting started," he pointed out, "and we will be in a position to get a flying start in the 1954 season."

Game Tuesday

A Tuesday game will introduce the two other teams in the league—the E&R and the Recreations.

Charlie Higgins will manage the VFW entry and is expected to name John Woolsey as his starting hurler.

The Vets have Ed Van Loan, Paul Giannuzzi, Tony Altamore and others.

All players in the league are requested to report to Tommy Maines Sport Shop today to pick up their uniforms.

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Chicago, Aug. 8 (AP) — Ed (Porky) Oliver, father of four and undoubtedly golf's most celebrated breadwinner, may have found the keys to the Fort Knox of the tournament circuit.

The 220-pounder, probably thinking of all the mouths he has to feed, has gone hog-wild in the chase for the $25,000 first prize of the "World's golf championship at Tam O'Shanter.

Old Pork Chops, wisecracking favorite of his colleagues in the lockerroom but a feared adversary on the links, headed into today's third round with a two-stroke lead.

The short iron master got in this enviable position of golf's richest tournament by calmly shooting a second-round 67 yesterday while some first-round leaders were choking up under the pressure.

The 67 gave the 36-year-old pro from Palm Springs, Calif., a neat 135, seven strokes under par, at the halfway point, and a chance at Tam's 72-hole record of 269 set by Byron Nelson in 1945.

"Porky is the man to catch now," said Al Besselink, voicing the opinion of the other 82 pros in the field. "He seldom folds under pressure. He just goes out and plays. I still think a 273 will be good enough to win, however."

"Let 'em catch me," laughed Oliver. "I'm not going to predict what it will take to cash in."

Pressing Leader

Bunched on Oliver's heels at 137 were Dave Douglas, the personable PGA vice persident who had yesterday's best round, at 65; Bob Toski, a 123-pounder who hits the ball a country mile; and Lew Worsham, the first-round leader who forfeited five strokes to par in the last six holes after a brilliant 33 on the first nine to wind up with a 72.

Louise Suggs of Atlanta, with a second round of 75 for 149, three strokes under par, shared the lead with Patty Berg in the $12,000 World championship for women pros. Babe Zaharias was third with 151.

Frank Stranahan, shooting for his fourth straight World men's amateur crown, carded a 67 for a leading 138, five strokes ahead of Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., the first round pacesetter.

"Wiff!" Smith of Guadalajara, 16-year-old Mexican Women's amateur titlist, took over first place in the weak, World amateur field for gals with 161. A six-stroke edge over Barbara Little, Wauwatosa, Wis.

Recreation Baseball League Makes Debut Sunday at Stadium

Jerry Young, Ace Comedian, Is Due

Those merry madcaps of baseball, led by their inimitable first baseman, Jerry Young, will be at municipal stadium tonight for the first local showing.

It's the Georgia Chain Gang, the finest comic outfit on the road, against the Kingston Colonials. Game time is 8:30 p. m.

Superb players and topnotch comics, the Georgia Chain Gang will feature a host of former minor league stars and Ronnie Perry, the great Holy Cross pitcher of the 1953 season.

Manager Fred Davi's Colonials are expected to introduce their Hudson valley tournament lineup with Clark Mains as starting hurler.

Several of the Georgia Chain Gang players have had Triple A experience. They are performing for their third year, outstanding successors to the famed Detroit Clowns.

The brunt of the comedy routine is carried by Young, who is a marvel around first base. He is ably assisted by Pete Cerrone, veteran pitcher, and Johnny Dunphy. They have several acts of pantomine, freak defensive alignments and other laugh producers.

Two-Year Record

In 1952, the "Chain Gang" scored 78 wins in 81 games and played a tie. They defeated the formidable Valley Field Braves of Canada before 31,000 fans at Fenway Park.

In 1951, their second year of operation, the Comedy Kings chalked up 85 wins and 6 losses. A nationwide barnstorming outfit, they attract record breaking crowds wherever they play.

Tonight's game will be the fourth of the season under Fred Davi's promotion. His City League All Stars defeated Waterbury and Jersey City Cardinals in extra innings before bowing to the Boston Hobos.

The game is the last independent attraction of the season at municipal stadium. A week from tonight, Aug. 15, the Colonials start the Hudson valley championship against Poughkeepsie.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By JOE STETSON
(Dog Editor)

"A pointing dog born with a bobtail," mused Chris.

"What's the answer to this one?"

Chris was working on the daily "Know Your Sports" series in the evening paper. This time the columnist had come up with a dog quiz containing such things as: What breed is required to have double dewclaws? What breed has the hair growing forward along the backbone? And the like.

Brittany Spaniel is the answer to that one.

"But this says pointing dog and you say spaniel," objected Chris. "Spaniels are not pointing dogs."

No, most spaniels are flushing dogs, but the Brittany points and most of them are natural bobtails. If their tails are longer than four inches they are docked as in other spaniels.

Here is a general description of the Brittany. You're going to see more and more of them so you'd better know what they look like and how they work.

Brittanys are white dogs with orange-red patches and head markings. They are rangier than springers although about the weight of a heavy English springer. Their leginess gives them greater speed and ground covering ability. If they weren't bred to point, they'd work too wide for flushing dogs.

A big Brittany is comparable to a small setter in size, but only the lively, intense type of small setter can stay with them. They finish quite easily and can be trained to work closer to the gun than most pointers.

They make good grouse and woodcock dogs when they've had some experience with these birds and they can do a good job on pheasant.

They're good quail dogs but, although there are some exceptions, they should be limited to hunting on foot and they are especially well equipped to handle singles.

Flint Named Tournament Director For Ulster County Seniors Oct. 3

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The answer to that recent blast against Little League by a national magazine is best expressed throughout the nation by parents, clergymen and police officers who know by experience that when Little League comes in, delinquency goes out.

The editors could have gotten their answer Wednesday night at Little League stadium when nearly 1500 persons stormed the area for the District 3 finals between Town of Esopus and Poughkeepsie.

Anything that can arouse the American public—friends, families and relatives—to such wholesome recreation and entertainment is here to stay. A couple of kids did flub some crucial plays but nobody got hurt. It was a terrific show and a credit to the small fry who played championship ball before a huge gathering.

Officials of Little League Baseball, Inc., at Williamsport have taken the article so seriously that they released a special memorandum to all Little League personnel, refuting the claims and terming the article "unfair and inconsiderate."

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Town of Esopus Legion and the small fry of that village across the bridge bathed themselves with glory. All the more remarkable was their achievement when you consider that in 1952—their first year of operation—they were unable to field a sanctioned league. A 4-team circuit poses a tough problem for a community the size of Port Ewen. There is some talk that the Esopus league will be reduced to three teams in 1954, with the graduates of the 1953 circuit forming a sixth team for the Fraternal Youth League. The Esopus kids appeared to be the best schooled squad in the tournament, defersively. They made outfield cutoffs, especially Charlie Turner, with professional finesse. Al MacIntosh, the pitcher who played first and was a hitting hero for Esopus, made two brilliant throws in the preliminary games to cut down runners attempting to go from first to third on an infield out. It reminded us of the time we sat with Fresco Thompson, Dodger scout, at municipal stadium watching a team go through infield practice. At one point, after the first baseman had whipped the ball to third, Thompson observed: "That's the most useless defensive play in baseball. How many times do you see it happen? Frankly, we never saw it happen until young MacIntosh did it twice in one tournament.

• Of Men and Mice:

Never saw a better LL performance than Richie Wenzel's third basing against Saugerties. Kingston can expect more serious opposition from Esopus and Saugerties next season. Bill Thomas, Jr., should be the big pitcher in the Kingston loop. Old timers cropping up at City League games, a sure sign that the Old Timers game isn't too far off . . . Sunday, Sept. 12, as a matter of fact. Saugerties and Kingston delegations get together at Jack Dawkins' tavern Monday night to iron out details. If you want real laughs and good baseball in one package, municipal stadium tonight is the place to see it. Mechanically, the Georgia Chain Gang is the greatest outfit since Buster Kenny's Detroit Clowns. Harlem Valley's Little Bigger League team will meet Burlington, N. J., in the Section 2 tournament finals at Poughkeepsie on Aug. 15. Biggest craze of the 1953 sports season has been the number of outboard regattas. Difference between the Kingston Power Boat Association's regatta and the others in the area is a big one. Entries in the KPBA regatta drive "racing" boats; others are stock model regattas.

Cliff Miller of Kingston wrapped up another outboard regatta victory in the recent Hudson meet. Billy Ostrom, the ageless southpaw, is pitching brilliantly for the Poughkeepsie All Stars and will be seen in the forthcoming round robin series. Jim Lawson of Newburgh is another standout. Fred Davi had better have Clark Mains in shape for that series. Lou Schafer, who rates as an expert on the subject, rates Gil Kelder, Jr., of Rosendale a polished swimmer and says "with constant practice and coaching he should go places." Kelder's crawl stroke and flutter kick are exception, Schafer says. The Braves' success story in Milwaukee is proof, perhaps, that more league teams should see more of the country.

Floyd W. Flint, president of the Twaalfskill Club, has been named director of the first annual Ulster County Seniors golf tournament which will be played at Twaalfskill on Sunday, Oct. 3.

Designation of Flint as tournament director was made at a recent meeting attended by representatives of all area golf clubs.

The tournament will be a one-day affair of 18 holes with players using their full club handicap. There will be five classes as follows:

Class A—70 years and over.
Class B—65 to 69.
Class C—60 to 64.
Class D—55 to 59.
Class E—50 to 54.

Class A entries will play only nine holes and the winner of this division will be recognized as the 1953 Ulster Seniors champion. First place winners in each division will receive appropriate prizes.

Gardner Secretary

Ralph E. Gardner, of Wiltwyck, who has served as secretary-treasurer of the Father Herdegen Memorial tournament, was named secretary. Wilson C. Ingalls of Wiltwyck will serve as treasurer.

Serving on the official tournament committee will be Frederick J. K. Ertel of Twaalfskill; Anthony DeLisio, president of the Woodstock Country Club; Maurice Davenport, Wiltwyck; and Julian Raper, Ellenville.

Members of the committee recommended a $5 entry fee for the tournament.

Entry blanks will be available at all area golf clubs in the near future.

Attending the organization meeting of the Seniors tournament were Floyd W. Flint and Alex Gerlak of Twaalfskill; Ralph E. Gardner and Wilson C. Ingalls of Wiltwyck; and J. Carson Hutchins and Allen Waterous of Woodstock.

Shawangunk Country Club of Ellenville was not represented but Julian Raper, tournament chairman, sent word that Shawangunk would compete.

Esopus LL Lists Final Dates, Playoff Series

Esopus Little Leaguers, having performed so brilliantly in the District 3 competition, returned to their respective rosters today for the first of two remaining playing dates on the 1953 schedule.

A doubleheader was scheduled at Ross Field starting at 4 p. m. with the Yankees and Dodgers meeting in the opener.

The league-leading Indians (6-1) were to meet the Giants in the nightcap at 6 p. m.

Yankees and Indians wind up the schedule Monday.

Playoff dates announced today by League director, Bob Braves, are Aug. 19-20-22 and will probably bring together the Giants and Indians in the best-of-three series.

The Giants won the first round and the Indians need only one victory in their last two games to insure themselves the second round bauble.

The SCOREBOARD

(By The Associated Press)

By BEN PHLEGAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

More and more it looks as if the Chicago White Sox are going to need outside help if they hope to overhaul the fast moving New York Yankees.

The Sox went into today's doubleheader in New York trailinb the world champions by six games. After today the clubs meet only six more times.

Where the Sox can find that outside help is another question since so far this season they are the only club that has as much as broken even with Casey Stengel's crew.

After yesterday's 6-1 victory by the Yankees the season's series stood even at seven games each.

It looked for awhile is if the Sox were going to jump off to a comfortable margin in the second inning of the first contest when with one out they pounded Eddie Lopat for three straight hits, a double and two singles. But the attack netted only one run as a squeeze play failed. The Yankees settled the issue in the very next inning.

Lopat started it with a single. Joe Collins walked and when Minnie Minoso missed a quick cutoff on Mickey Mantle's liner to left center, the fleet-footed Yankee circled the bases as fast as you can say "when do they start selling World Series tickets." Yogi Berra, the next man up, made the runs look legitimate by poking the ball into the right field seats. Billy Martin homered with one aboard in the eighth.

Yanks Gain a Game

The Yankees gained another full game over the third place Cleveland Indians who bowed to Boston 4-2. Brilliant fielding by Jim Piersall and relief pitching by Ellis Kinder saved Mel Parnell's 15th victory. Philadelphia edged Detroit 3-1 in one of the fastest games of the year, an hour and 42 minutes, and Connie Marrero of Washington shut out St. Louis on three hits 12-0.

In the National League the Brooklyn Dodgers maintained their 7½ game lead over Milwaukee as all of the first division teams triumphed. The Dodgers trounced Cincinnati 9-4. Milwaukee whipped Pittsburgh 9-2, Philadelphia nosed out Chicago 5-4 and St. Louis handed New York its 10th loss in 13 games 2-1.

Parnell's victory over Cleveland was his first against the Indians at Fenway Park in almost four years. He drove in three of the runs but needed help from Kinder in the seventh when he got himself in trouble on his own poor fielding.

Interrupted by Rain

The Brooklyn game at Cincinnati was interrupted for 42 minutes by rain in the middle of the sixth inning but it didn't rain hard enough to help the Redlegs. The Dodgers had just scored three runs and led 3-2 when time was called. If no further play had been possible the three runs would have been washed out and the Reds would have won 2-0 on Andy Seminick's two run homer in the fifth.

As it was the Dodgers added one in the seventh on Duke Snider's homer, four more in the eighth including a three run drive by Carl Furillo and a final tally in the ninth.

Stan Musial got the Cards off in front against New York with a first inning home run. After the Giants tied it in the fourth the Cardinals pushed across the winning run in the bottom of the fourth with a double by Ray Jablonski and a single by Steve Bilko.

The Phillies are 9½ games behind the Dodgers but they play like champions when they encounter the Cubs. Their triumph yesterday was their 13th in 14 meetings. Ralph Kiner hit his 27th homer for Chicago.

Blocked Out at Plate

Direct Rhythm Wins at Roosevelt

Westbury, Aug. 8 (AP)—Direct Rhythm, owned by W. G. Reynolds of Louisville, Ky., scored a half length victory over Prince Jay last night in the $10,000 Jericho Pace, feature of the Grand Circuit meeting at Roosevelt Raceway.

Direct Rhythm, the fastest living pacer with a 1:56.1 mile, came from fifth place on the backstretch to pass pace-setting Red Sails and then withstood a late rush by Prince Jay. Guinea Gold, who broke stride at the start, came back to take third. The time for the mile was 2:01.4.

Driven by Del Miller, Direct Rhythm returned $4.80 for $2. The victory was worth $5,000 to Reynolds and boosted Direct Rhythm's 1953 earnings to $40,994.

VFW and Hercules In 1953 Opener For 15-18 Nines

Woolsey, Houghtaling Are Probable Starters

The newly organized Recreation Baseball League will make its debut Sunday at 6 p. m. at municipal stadium, with the Veterans of Foreign Wars meeting Hercules.

The league is for boys 15 to 18 years of age.

League director Harry L. "Pop" Edson said league officials are not concerned by the rather late start of the new circuit.

"We're at least getting started," he pointed out, "and we will be in a position to get a flying start in the 1954 season."

Game Tuesday

A Tuesday game will introduce the two other teams in the league —the E&R and the Recreations.

Charlie Higgins will manage the VFW entry and is expected to name John Woolsey as his starting hurler.

The Vets have Ed Van Loan, Paul Giannuzzi, Tony Altamore and others.

All players in the league are requested to report to Tommy Maines Sport Shop today to pick up their uniforms.

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Chicago, Aug. 8 (AP) — Ed (Porky) Oliver, father of four and undoubtedly golf's most celebrated breadwinner, may have found the keys to the Fort Knox of the tournament circuit.

The 220-pounder, probably thinking of all the mouths he has to feed, has gone hog-wild in the chase for the $25,000 first prize of the "World's golf championship at Tam O'Shanter.

Old Pork Chops, wisecracking favorite of his colleagues in the lockerroom but a feared adversary on the links, headed into today's third round with a two-stroke lead.

The short iron master got in this enviable position of golf's richest tournament by calmly shooting a second-round 67 yesterday while some first-round leaders were choking up under the pressure.

The 67 gave the 36-year-old pro from Palm Springs, Calif., a neat 135, seven strokes under par, at the halfway point, and a chance at Tam's 72-hole record of 269 set by Byron Nelson in 1945.

"Porky is the man to catch now," said Al Besselink, voicing the opinion of the other 82 pros in the field. "He seldom folds under pressure. He just goes out and plays. I still think a 273 will be good enough to win, however."

"Let 'em catch me," laughed Oliver. "I'm not going to predict what it will take to cash in."

Pressing Leader

Bunched on Oliver's heels at 137 were Dave Douglas, the personable PGA vice persident who had yesterday's best round, at 65; Bob Toski, a 123-pounder who hits the ball a country mile; and Lew Worsham, the first-round leader who forfeited five strokes to par in the last six holes after a brilliant 33 on the first nine to wind up with a 72.

Louise Suggs of Atlanta, with a second round of 75 for 149, three strokes under par, shared the lead with Patty Berg in the $12,000 World championship for women pros. Babe Zaharias was third with 151.

Frank Stranahan, shooting for his fourth straight World men's amateur crown, carded a 67 for a leading 138, five strokes ahead of Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., the first round pacesetter.

"Wiff!" Smith of Guadalajara, 16-year-old Mexican Women's amateur titlist, took over first place in the weak, World amateur field for gals with 161. A six-stroke edge over Barbara Little, Wauwatosa, Wis.

2,200 Going Out

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP) — The pinch of budget limitations will squeeze 2,200 reserve officers out of the navy's active rolls in January. The navy said yesterday this cut, out of the 37,000 reserve officers on active duty, was necessary to keep within budget limits. Some specialists will be exempted. Special boards have already selected 1,200 reserve lieutenant commanders and captains for release and will also choose 1,000 lieutenants.

Demands Loyalty Oaths From All Employes

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 8 (AP)—Gov. Driscoll has directed state department heads to make sure all of their 23,000 employes have signed loyalty oaths required by a 1949 state law.

Driscoll issued the order because the law was not being enforced uniformly, according to Russel Watson Jr., the governor's secretary.

Watson said yesterday some employes had not been asked to sign the oath. He said no particular event prompted the governor's decision and that the directive went out to the state's 14 department heads about 10 days ago.

The 1949 law requires that all state employes sign oaths of allegiance and statements that they do not advocate force or violence to overthrow or change the established state or national government.

10 Face Death In Korean Purge

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—Moscow Radio reported today the North Korean Supreme Court has sentenced to death 10 high government officials accused of plotting to overthrow North Korea's Communist regime. Two others were given long jail terms.

The 12 defendants in a typical Communist purge trial "confessed," the radio said, to spying and carrying on other subversive work for the United States and South Korea.

Named as ringleader and topping the list of those sentenced to die was former Justice Minister Lee Sung Yop. Among the others were former Deputy Propaganda Minister Cho Yun Nyong, former Foreign Minister Pak Hong Wong, and the Communist Party's former deputy propaganda chief, Rhee Won Cho.

One of the jailed officials was sentenced to 15 years, the other 12.

The Communist acknowledgment that ranking Reds had gone on trial confirmed South Korean intelligence reports that a big purge had been underway for several weeks in North Korea.

Pak was considered a top official, often acting as government spokesman. He formerly lived in South Korea and was once secretary general of the Korean Communist Party. He fled to the north in 1946.

Brakes Burn

Overheated brake bands on a 1947 sedan on Wilbur avenue near the incinerator resulted in a call to the Central Fire Station at 8:12 a. m. today. Firemen reported the operator of the vehicle, George E. Hughes of 82 Cedar street, was driving with his emergency handbrake on. The fire was out on arrival of Engine 3 from Wiltwyck station.

Driver Is Shot

Cairo, Egypt, Aug. 8 (AP) — A British embassy spokesman said the driver of a British military vehicles was shot in the head this morning at Port Said, northern terminus of the Suez Canal. The vehicle was stolen, the spokesman said, and the driver is in a hospital at El Bala where he is on the danger list.

Killed in Fall

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—A 10-year-old girl was killed early today when she fell from her fourth-floor bedroom window while watching firemen fight a blaze opposite her home. Police said the victim, Geraldine Kissling, apparently was awakened by the fire truck sirens and ran to the window. She leaned out too far and plunged to the pavement.

Punished Astronomers

Chung K'ang, an ancient Chinese king, sent a military expedition to punish two of his astronomers who failed to observe an eclipse, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Leaps to Her Death

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—A 45-year-old woman leaped to her death last night following an argument with her husband, a Brooklyn attorney. Edward Roberts, 52, told police he and his wife, Ruth, had been quarreling and that he left the living room of their sixth-floor apartment. Roberts said he rushed back into the room when he heard his wife say, "I'm going out the window." His wife's body landed on a second-floor extension of the building.

State Has 269 Strikes

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—The New York State Department of Labor reported today there were 269 strikes in the state during the first six months of 1953, compared to 329 for the same period in 1952. The 1953 labor disputes idled 90,400 workers, compared to 146,000 last year. The department figures the 1953 strikes caused loss of 1,590,000 man-days, or .24 per cent of available working time, compared to 1,990,000 man-days representing .31 per cent of available time during last year's first six months.

2,200 Going Out

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP) — The pinch of budget limitations will squeeze 2,200 reserve officers out of the navy's active rolls in January. The navy said yesterday this cut, out of the 37,000 reserve officers on active duty, was necessary to keep within budget limits. Some specialists will be exempted. Special boards have already selected 1,200 reserve lieutenant commanders and captains for release and will also choose 1,000 lieutenants.

Charge Dismissed

A charge of disorderly conduct in the case of Timothy Doyle of 10 Summer street was dismissed in City Court this morning. Doyle was arrested July 25 at police headquarters by Lt. James P. Martin, who charged Doyle created a disturbance at headquarters when he came in to pay a traffic fine. Doyle was represented by Attorney Guido Napoletano.

Demands Loyalty Oaths From All Employes

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 8 (AP)—Gov. Driscoll has directed state department heads to make sure all of their 23,000 employes have signed loyalty oaths required by a 1949 state law.

Driscoll issued the order because the law was not being enforced uniformly, according to Russel Watson Jr., the governor's secretary.

Watson said yesterday some employes had not been asked to sign the oath. He said no particular event prompted the governor's decision and that the directive went out to the state's 14 department heads about 10 days ago.

The 1949 law requires that all state employes sign oaths of allegiance and statements that they do not advocate force or violence to overthrow or change the established state or national government.

10 Face Death In Korean Purge

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—Moscow Radio reported today the North Korean Supreme Court has sentenced to death 10 high government officials accused of plotting to overthrow North Korea's Communist regime. Two others were given long jail terms.

The 12 defendants in a typical Communist purge trial "confessed," the radio said, to spying and carrying on other subversive work for the United States and South Korea.

Named as ringleader and topping the list of those sentenced to die was former Justice Minister Lee Sung Yop. Among the others were former Deputy Propaganda Minister Cho Yun Nyong, former Foreign Minister Pak Hong Wong, and the Communist Party's former deputy propaganda chief, Rhee Won Cho.

One of the jailed officials was sentenced to 15 years, the other 12.

The Communist acknowledgment that ranking Reds had gone on trial confirmed South Korean intelligence reports that a big purge had been underway for several weeks in North Korea.

Pak was considered a top official, often acting as government spokesman. He formerly lived in South Korea and was once secretary general of the Korean Communist Party. He fled to the north in 1946.

Brakes Burn

Overheated brake bands on a 1947 sedan on Wilbur avenue near the incinerator resulted in a call to the Central Fire Station at 8:12 a. m. today. Firemen reported the operator of the vehicle, George E. Hughes of 82 Cedar street, was driving with his emergency handbrake on. The fire was out on arrival of Engine 3 from Wiltwyck station.

Driver Is Shot

Cairo, Egypt, Aug. 8 (AP) — A British embassy spokesman said the driver of a British military vehicles was shot in the head this morning at Port Said, northern terminus of the Suez Canal. The vehicle was stolen, the spokesman said, and the driver is in a hospital at El Bala where he is on the danger list.

Killed in Fall

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—A 10-year-old girl was killed early today when she fell from her fourth-floor bedroom window while watching firemen fight a blaze opposite her home. Police said the victim, Geraldine Kissling, apparently was awakened by the fire truck sirens and ran to the window. She leaned out too far and plunged to the pavement.

Punished Astronomers

Leaps to Her Death

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—A 45-year-old woman leaped to her death last night following an argument with her husband, a Brooklyn attorney. Edward Roberts, 52, told police he and his wife, Ruth, had been quarreling and that he left the living room of their sixth-floor apartment. Roberts said he rushed back into the room when he heard his wife say, "I'm going out the window." His wife's body landed on a second-floor extension of the building.

Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of a dear daughter and sister, Jeanette Grimes Williams, whom God called one year ago, August 9, 1952.

Of a loved one gone to rest.
And those who think of her today
Are those who loved her best.
Her cheery way, her smiling face
Are pleasures to recall.
She had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.

Soapbox Derby At Akron Sunday

Akron, Ohio, Aug. 8 (AP)—Late tomorrow afternoon a kid in a little motorless homemade racer will glide down a long green three-lane track, just a shade ahead of two other little racers.

The checkered flag will wave, and some 60,000 spectators will be yelling so loud that no one can hear the scrape of three drag brakes on the concrete.

Fairly boiling with excitement, the kid will help load his little car on a big truck for the ride up the 975.4-foot course of Derby Downs. There on topside, by the starting bridge, there will be a flurry of flowers, microphones, cameras and general confusion. It will be the champ's big moment in the 16th annual running of the All-American Soap-Box Derby. Tomorrow night, at a banquet for all the boys, he will get a $5,000 college scholarship.

What will the new champ be like, and what has he been through?

He has to be between 11 and 15 years old. Whether he has freckles—as some champs have had—doesn't matter. He may be large, or a half-pint, but the combined weight of the boy and his car must not exceed 250 pounds. Some of the heftier boys have to watch their weight.

He has to be a craftsman. Advice is all the help he can get. Every lick of work that has gone into his car must have been his own. And except for a set of commercially made wheels and axles at $12.25 he must not have spent more than $10. Old timers at Derby Downs say a lot of the boys are as skilled as a machinist or a cabinet maker. He even polishes his car—to cut the wind resistance—with a favorite dope of his own. His racer may be any color, but from some unexplained reason, black cars seem lucky.

Home Town Champ

He must have been a champion in his home town. He has come to Akron to compete against 150 other boys from all over the United States, from Canada, Alaska and West Germany. There are three days of ballyhoo, trial runs and entertainment. This may be his second or third try at Derby Downs, but the thrills always seem new.

He must win under pressure. The heats start at 1 p. m. (EST) tomorrow, and every 90 seconds three boys are whizzing down the hill. Only the heat winners can go on. Boys whose cars have scraped the skirtboard or have developed a wobble must make emergency repairs that would do credit to a pit man at the Indianapolis speedway. In a few minutes, the handlers are easing the car against the starting paddles, the paddles drop and the boy is off again.

His name will be known to thousands before the truck gets to the top of the hill tomorrow afternoon. He could be the kid who lives in the next block.

And it's a fair bet the new champ will brush a sleeve across his eyes before he gives out that old victory cry, "Hi, Mom: We won."

Suffers Bruises When Hit by Car, Police Say

Arthur Sutton, 61, of 9 North Wilbur avenue, was taken to Kingston Hospital shortly before noon today with a bruised hip and back suffered when he was struck by a car at the intersection of Broadway and Pine Grove avenue, police reported.

Police said Sutton was crossing Broadway from the Trailways Bus Terminal to the central post office at 11:05 a. m. when he was struck by a 1941 sedan operated by Arthur E. Cross of 1 Vincent street, traveling south on Broadway.

Staple in Slingshot Pierces Boy's Eye

Police said the child, William Bradford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Bradford of 13 Hasbrouck avenue, had been hit by a thin wire sliver, the type used in stapling machines for fastening papers together. The staple was discharged from a slingshot in the hands of William Ellsworth of 9 Hasbrouck avenue, police said.

Perforates Eyeball

An operation was performed by a local physician who told The Freeman that the point of the staple had "perforated the eyeball." It missed the pupillary area, he said, striking the cornea of the eyeball.

He explained that the staple had not remained in the eye when it struck it. The operation was for a "prolapsed iris," he said.

Officers Edward J. Edwards and Raymond B. Wells, who were dispatched to the scene following a call by Mrs. Bradford, took the boy and his mother to Kingston Hospital.

Victims Identified

El Toro, Calif., Aug. 8 (AP)—Authorities at the marine station here today identified two airmen yesterday in the crash of a TV2 jet trainer as: Maj. Robert L. Stigall, pilot instructor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis V. Stigall, St. Joseph, Mo. Maj. William R. Van Ness, student pilot, husband of Mrs. Ann Marie Van Ness, South Laguna Beach, Calif., and son of Mrs. Florence Van Ness, 909 Quinton avenue, Trenton, N. J. The trainer crashed and exploded a mile west of the station less than a minute after the takeoff.

A pastry blender will save time and be easy on your arm when a recipe tells you to cut the shortening into the flour.

Clark Ponders, Then Answers

Gen. Mark Clark ponders a question (left), then gives an answer (right) during a news conference at the Pentagon. The Far East commander said there "may be between 2,000 and 3,000" more Americans in enemy prison camps than the Communists have said they will return in the exchange now under way. Clark also said that "thousands upon thousands" of South Koreans still are unaccounted for. Clark, who will return to his Tokyo headquarters in a few days, also said he applied for retirement from the army, effective Oct. 31.

Berlin Has New Bans on Travel

Berlin, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Russian zone Communists reportedly clamped severe new restrictions on travel into Berlin today in a desperate attempt to prevent a weekend rush of East Germans to American free food stations here. But thousands of the hungry and resourceful made it anyhow.

The newest Red measures aimed at stopping even cyclists and pedestrians from getting across the sector border. They were said to have been ordered after a one-week ban on the sale of railroad tickets and direct assaults by Red storm troopers failed to smash the relief campaign.

Defying arrest and persecution, the East Germans thumbed their noses at the Communist police by finding or making new loopholes.

Lines formed at the food stations before mid-morning and the vast give-away was expected to pass the two-million-parcel mark over the weekend. Yesterday 108,000 parcels were distributed—64,000 to residents of the Russian occupation zone — bringing the total for 12 days to 1,865,000.

Persecuted in Reprisal

Widespread Communist persecution continued against people who took the American aid. In some places, pensions and other public aid were cut of in reprisal.

East Germany's shaky army and People's police were racked by continued desertions as 25 more cops and soldiers fled to West Berlin last night for asylum. This brought the total for the first seven days of August to 186 and the total for this year to 2,656. Many of the deserters reported they fled in revolt carrying out reprisals against the food seekers.

Urges Motorists To Slow Down

Pointing out that speed is the leading cause of accidents, Sheriff Cluett Schantz today urged Ulster county motorists to "slow down, be safe, be accident free" during their vacations.

"Speeding can spoil an otherwise enjoyable vacation," the sheriff said in a statement prepared in cooperation with the 11-state speed control campaign sponsored by the Police Bureau of the State Division of Safety.

"Everyone knows the shock, grief and unpleasantness associated with accident occurrence. Nothing can mar a vacation more than a serious highway mishap. The loss of life, injury or property damage resulting from an automobile accident can curtail a vacation and completely destroy any thoughts of a happy holiday," he said.

"Speed, too fast for conditions, is responsible for almost 30 per cent of our automobile fatalities," he said, adding that speed limits should be regarded as maximum speeds under average conditions. "Should traffic be heavy, the road wet or visibility obscured, the driver should hold his speed to considerably less than the authorized limit." Slogan of the 11-state campaign is "Slow Down and Live."

Return to Work

Paris, Aug. 8 (AP)—French civil servants began trooping back to work today as the nation's worst general strike since the Popular Front days of 1936 sputtered toward a close. But mail, telegraph, telephone, gas and electric power services remained out. Buses and subways roared back into operation and government employes were at their desks when offices opened this morning. Crack railroad trains chugged out of Paris' big stations. Elsewhere, however, the rail strike continued. The returning workers were among an estimated two million Frenchmen employed in a variety of public services from street sweepers and grave diggers to rail workers who left their jobs at midnight Thursday in protest against Premier Joseph Laniel's rumored plans to save money at their expense.

Eden on the Riviera

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden flew to the Riviera today for further recuperation after three gall bladder operations. Accompanied by his wife and his son, Nicholas, he will spend about a month in southern France and Greece. Eden returned last month from the United States, where he underwent his third operation in Boston June 10.

Catholic Soldier Says Prayer Helped Him in Torture

Inchon, Korea, Aug. 8 (AP)—Sgt. James W. Richardson looked down at his Rosary.

"I spoke daily and frequently to the Man upstairs," he said. "I guess you would call it praying."

Sgt. Richardson, of Philadelphia, is at Inchon awaiting shipment home. He came out of 27 miserable months of Red imprisonment Thursday in the Korean POW exchange at Panmunjom and told of Red controls on prisoners' religious services.

"I had the wife and kids in mind all the time," he said in an interview.

"I said some prayers up there, naturally. But most of the time I just talked to Him. I honestly believe that is how I pulled through."

Strike Out Lord

At Easter, 1952, the Chinese superintendent of Camp 3 allowed the Catholics to hold a service—but the Reds forbade them to use the names of the saints and struck the name of the Lord from many of the prayers they were going to use.

The men conducted the service themselves. There was no priest.

"Everything that was to be said had to be approved the Saturday night before," Richardson said. "There were a few things they cut out. They didn't like you to mention the Lord's name too much and they took out the names of all the saints.

Put Up Argument

"They left the Lord's name in there a few times because the guys argued it had to be in there."

Later, Richardson said, the Reds allowed the Americans to hold religious services every Sunday. About last April they stopped the censorship.

Richardson had a rosary and a crucifix when he was captured. The Reds took them away, along with his other personal belongings.

The rosary he had today he bought here at the Inchon replacement depot.

Richardson was a cook with a Korean military advisory group (MAG) outfit attached to the 9th Republic of Korea Division when the Communists began the second phase of their 1951 spring offensive on the eastern front the night of May 16.

Was Driving Truck

Richardson said he was near death several times during the first nine months he was a prisoner.

He still has five burp gun slugs in his body.

Red Guards Cruel

North Koreans took his boots away and he walked barefoot for 32 days over rough North Korean roads.

He dropped from 180 pounds to 75. He blacked out while he was marching. Half the time he didn't know where he was. The pain from his wounds and his blistered feet was excruciating.

Sometimes the Communists were kind to him. Just after his capture a Chinese officer let him have some cookies because he was wounded.

A Caucasian in a jeep—Richardson assumed he was a Russian—stopped when he saw Richardson and another American prisoner trudging along a road in front of a North Korean guard. The Caucasian gave them an apple and a pear.

Three Caucasian soldiers in a truck who wore Russian-type uniforms game him and 15 other prisoners a loaf of bread. But mostly his captors were unkind, Richardson said.

Greece Balances Budget

Athens, Greece, Aug. 8 (AP)—Greece, whose economy has been bolstered by billions in American aid, announced today its first balanced budget since before the war. Coordination Minister Spyros Markenzinis reported at a news conference that from the projected 300 million dollar budget for the 1953-54 financial year, Greece had earmarked 51 per cent for defense and national security spending.

Suffers Minor Hurts In Rotary Cement Mixer

Glastonbury, Conn., Aug. 8 (AP)—Frederick Hale, 24, of Hartford, spent 15 minutes inside of a rotary cement mixer in operation here yesterday and emerged with only minor injuries.

Hale entered the mixer to clean it. The heavy iron barrel began to turn and he was pinned between the drum and a guard rail. His cries for help brought firemen who played a hose on the trapped man while the metal was cut away with an acetylene torch.

Hartford hospital authorities said he suffered minor leg and back injuries but that a man not as sturdy as Hale might have been killed.

Barrier Raised

would no longer be a war of strictly limited operations.

General Mark Clark, the UN commander, said at a news conference here two days ago that if the Reds broke the truce he would be in favor of using all the weapons in the American arsenal to crush the aggressors— an arsenal which, of course, includes atomic bombs.

Policy decisions kept American forces from using atomic weapons against the Communist forces in Korea or striking directly at their sources of supply in Red China.

Powerful Arguments

The pact plus economic and military aid from the United States may prove powerful arguments for getting Rhee to give up his announced intention of fighting for his country's unity if it can not be achieved in a limited time by political negotiations.

Meanwhile U. S. officials said they did not see much prospect of immediate benefit to the anti-Communist cause from reported purges in the Communist government, of war-drained North Korea.

The Pyongyang Radio said yesterday that 12 high officials have been prosecuted for planning to overthrow the Communist regime and spying for U. S. secret agents.

Speculation ranged over the possibilities that pro-Chinese and pro-Russian Communists are contending for control of the government or that Premier Kim Il Sung is attempting to hold his job against such rivals as Pak Hong Wong, former vice premier and foreign minister now reported replaced.

"The North Koreans have always been puppets," one military observed remarked. "It doesn't make much difference whether they are puppets of the Chinese or the Russians."

But the interplay of Chinese and Russian influence suggested to some officials the possibility that the shakeup may have future significance.

Two Killed When Plane Hits Television Tower

Pottsville, Pa., Aug. 8 (AP)—A private plane crashed near a mountain top television broadcast tower today and state police reported the two passengers in the plane were killed.

The tower, atop Blue Mountain 15 miles south of this eastern Pennsylvania anthracite region city, is 1,060 feet high. The mountain top is 1,300 feet above sea level.

State police at the Hamburg, Pa., substation said they had been informed the plane hit one of the guy wires supporting the giant antenna of Station WHUM-TV. A morning fog overhung the area at the time.

A spokesman at WHUM-TV studios in Reading, Pa., said they had no direct information on the accident other than that relayed by state police. The television station was not broadcasting at the time.

State police said the victims had not been identified.

smoking conflicted on some points, almost to a man Saturday's liberated POWs—80 of them Negroes—voiced a bitter hatred of communism.

Most of the prisoners were captured in the early days of the war while with the now-inactivated 24th regiment of the 25th Division. Many were held at Camp 5 at Pyoktong on the Yalu river just south of Manchuria.

The prisoners said they found the weed—which gave an intoxicating effect when smoked—while on wood gathering forays outside the compounds.

Pfc. Robert I. Brooks, 23, of Reidsville, S. C., said the Chinese "could have stopped" its use "if they had really wanted to.'

Another liberated POW, Cpl. Albert Dixon, 26, of Manchester, Ga., declared the Reds had made some effort to stop the practice.

Called Red Plan

Brooks said he thought the Communists encouraged its use "because if they figured they could make a junkie out of you, would would be willing to do what they wanted."

Some prisoners said only a few men smoked the weed, but Pvt. Willie J. Rudd of Los Angeles, told newsmen that at one time in his camp the Reds isolated 50 prisoners in a special narcotic ward.

Pvt. Godfrey Jones of Scarboro, W. Va., likened the weed to hashish or East Indian hemp smoked in many Oriental countries for its intoxicating effects.

Cpl. Robert I. Banks, 23, Cambridge, Md., said he knew of a few prisoners who sympathized with the Communists.

"They were called progressives" by the other prisoners, Banks said. "I thought they were taking the wrong road."

Given Courses

He said some of the "progressives" were separated from the others and given further courses in communism.

Banks said at first the white prisoners were not separated by the Reds but later the whites were put in camps away from Negroes. He said still later the prisoners were split up according to nationality but that American Negroes were kept away from the whites.

Banks said the Communists harped on racial discrimination in the United States but did not make much headway toward converting Americans into Reds.

Pfc. Wilbert R. Gibson, 29, Detroit, said "I saw them whip one guy. They hit him with a club, cut him up and threw him in a hole in the ground. I never saw him again."

Gibson said a camp fight broke out one day between his company and a group of Turk prisoners when the Americans were carrying wood across a play field where the Turks were playing soccer.

He said one American was stabbed.

Pfc. Lorn Hemphill, 26, of Whitestone, S. C., captured in December, 1950, at Kunu, was asked if the Communists used rifle butts and bayonets to prod the men on the march north of Pyoktong.

"You ain't kidding," he replied.

He said some men fell behind and a guard would remain with them but later the guard would show up without the prisoners.

"I don't know what happened to them," Hemphill said.

Meanwhile, at Inchon, a port on South Korea's west coast, some American disabled were loaded by helicopter onto the hospital ship Haven for the voyage back to the United States.

They were given the navy's best—soft bunks, clean white sheets, meals brought to them, ice cream and the run of the ship's recreational facilities.

Other able-bodied Americans returned in the first three days continued their processing, waiting for the first ship to leave for home.

The exact time of departure or arrival in the United States of the ships has not been announced.

Security Pact . . .

Fiery President Rhee has clamored for allied support of resuming the war if unification is not achieved and the walkout becomes a fact.

Will Consult Further

But the Dulles-Rhee statement said the two nations if they leave the talks will "consult further regarding the attainment of a unified, free and independent Korea which is the post-war goal the United States set for itself during World War II.

Dulles told newsmen "I believe it possible to complete great and good results by peaceful means. This is an abiding conviction of mine."

But Rhee, bitter foe of a truce which left Korea divided, has expressed no faith in political talks with the Communists. Time and again, the 78-year-old Korean leader has said what cannot be gained on the battlefield will never be won at a conference table.

The joint statement said the U. S. recognizes that South Korea "possesses the inherent right of sovereignty to deal with its problems, but it has agreed to take no unilateral action to unite Korea by military means for the agreed duration of the political conference."

To Start Sub Oct. 1

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP) — The Sea Wolf, the second U. S. atomic submarine, will begin taking shape Oct. 1. The navy said yesterday its keel would be laid at Groton, Conn. It is estimated to cost $32,700,000 without its nuclear power plant, which is being built by the General Electric Co. The first atomic submarine, The Nautilus, is estimated to cost 29 million dollars without its power plant.

Tax Case Is . . .

Scaled Down $3 Million

He said the firm got a decision speeded up in violation of treasury rules after Snyder interested himself in the case in 1948, although the figure was scaled down to three million dollars by the time the refund was approved.

Previous hearings brought out that Universal Pictures hired John Horton, Snyder's son-in-law, in 1950 as its Washington representative. Both Snyder and Horton denied the appointment had any connection with the tax case.

A second treasury ruling reported to the committee as having been speeded involved the claim of the late Frank C. Rand of St. Louis for an income tax refund of $330,000. A compromise settlement was reached at $175,000.

Cite 'Extreme Speed'

William P. Hindman, assistant subcommittee counsel, said the investigators did not think the settlement was necessarily wrong. But he said they wanted to call attention to the "extreme speed" with which it was approved, and the relationship of this speed to Snyder's interest in the case.

Snyder could not be reached for comment on yesterday's developments.

The legislators are now preparing a report on the basis of their lengthy inquiry. Kean said no more hearings are now planned, but will be held if required by future developments.

Hiker Killed in Fall

Bolton Landing, Aug. 8 (AP)—A hiker was killed yesterday when he slipped from a narrow trail and fell about 100 feet into the dry bed of a creek. Charles Prince, 53, of (651 Yonkers avenue) Yonkers was about a quarter-mile north of this resort on Lake George, hiking uphill to a reservoir. Rescuers had to be lowered down to his body on ropes. Prince, a chauffeur employed by the Burroughs Wellcome Co. of Tuckahoe, was here on a vacation with his wife, Madeline.

Today recalls sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest.

Soapbox Derby At Akron Sunday

Akron, Ohio, Aug. 8 (AP)—Late tomorrow afternoon a kid in a little motorless homemade racer will glide down a long green three-lane track, just a shade ahead of two other little racers.

The checkered flag will wave, and some 60,000 spectators will be yelling so loud that no one can hear the scrape of three drag brakes on the concrete.

Fairly boiling with excitement, the kid will help load his little car on a big truck for the ride up the 975.4-foot course of Derby Downs. There on topside, by the starting bridge, there will be a flurry of flowers, microphones, cameras and general confusion. It will be the champ's big moment in the 16th annual running of the All-American Soap-Box Derby. Tomorrow night, at a banquet for all the boys, he will get a $5,000 college scholarship.

What will the new champ be like, and what has he been through?

He has to be between 11 and 15 years old. Whether he has freckles—as some champs have had—doesn't matter. He may be large, or a half-pint, but the combined weight of the boy and his car must not exceed 250 pounds. Some of the heftier boys have to watch their weight.

He has to be a craftsman. Advice is all the help he can get. Every lick of work that has gone into his car must have been his own. And except for a set of commercially made wheels and axles at $12.25 he must not have spent more than $10. Old timers at Derby Downs say a lot of the boys are as skilled as a machinist or a cabinet maker. He even polishes his car—to cut the wind resistance—with a favorite dope of his own. His racer may be any color, but from some unexplained reason, black cars seem lucky.

Home Town Champ

He must have been a champion in his home town. He has come to Akron to compete against 150 other boys from all over the United States, from Canada, Alaska and West Germany. There are three days of ballyhoo, trial runs and entertainment. This may be his second or third try at Derby Downs, but the thrills always seem new.

He must win under pressure. The heats start at 1 p. m. (EST) tomorrow, and every 90 seconds three boys are whizzing down the hill. Only the heat winners can go on. Boys whose cars have scraped the skirtboard or have developed a wobble must make emergency repairs that would do credit to a pit man at the Indianapolis speedway. In a few minutes, the handlers are easing the car against the starting paddles, the paddles drop and the boy is off again.

His name will be known to thousands before the truck gets to the top of the hill tomorrow afternoon. He could be the kid who lives in the next block.

And it's a fair bet the new champ will brush a sleeve across his eyes before he gives out that old victory cry, "Hi, Mom: We won."

Suffers Bruises When Hit by Car, Police Say

Arthur Sutton, 61, of 9 North Wilbur avenue, was taken to Kingston Hospital shortly before noon today with a bruised hip and back suffered when he was struck by a car at the intersection of Broadway and Pine Grove avenue, police reported.

Police said Sutton was crossing Broadway from the Trailways Bus Terminal to the central post office at 11:05 a. m. when he was struck by a 1941 sedan operated by Arthur E. Cross of 1 Vincent street, traveling south on Broadway.

Staple in Slingshot Pierces Boy's Eye

An eight-year-old boy whose left eye was injured late yesterday morning when it was struck by a small wire staple fired from a slingshot was reported "apparently fair" at Kingston Hospital today.

Police said the child, William Bradford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Bradford of 13 Hasbrouck avenue, had been hit by a thin wire sliver, the type used in stapling machines for fastening papers together. The staple was discharged from a slingshot in the hands of William Ellsworth of 9 Hasbrouck avenue, police said.

Perforates Eyeball

An operation was performed by a local physician who told The Freeman that the point of the staple had "perforated the eyeball." It missed the pupillary area, he said, striking the cornea of the eyeball.

He explained that the staple had not remained in the eye when it struck it. The operation was for a "prolapsed iris," he said.

Officers Edward J. Edwards and Raymond B. Wells, who were dispatched to the scene following a call by Mrs. Bradford, took the boy and his mother to Kingston Hospital.

Victims Identified

El Toro, Calif., Aug. 8 (AP)—Authorities at the marine station here today identified two airmen yesterday in the crash of a TV2 jet trainer as: Maj. Robert L. Stigall, pilot instructor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis V. Stigall, St. Joseph, Mo. Maj. William R. Van Ness, student pilot, husband of Mrs. Ann Marie Van Ness, South Laguna Beach, Calif., and son of Mrs. Florence Van Ness, 909 Quinton avenue, Trenton, N. J. The trainer crashed and exploded a mile west of the station less than a minute after the takeoff.

Clark Ponders, Then Answers

Gen. Mark Clark ponders a question (left), then gives an answer (right) during a news conference at the Pentagon. The Far East commander said there "may be between 2,000 and 3,000" more Americans in enemy prison camps than the Communists have said they will return in the exchange now under way. Clark also said that "thousands upon thousands" of South Koreans still are unaccounted for. Clark, who will return to his Tokyo headquarters in a few days, also said he applied for retirement from the army, effective Oct. 31.

Berlin Has New Bans on Travel

Berlin, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Russian zone Communists reportedly clamped severe new restrictions on travel into Berlin today in a desperate attempt to prevent a weekend rush of East Germans to American free food stations here. But thousands of the hungry and resourceful made it anyhow.

The newest Red measures aimed at stopping even cyclists and pedestrians from getting across the sector border. They were said to have been ordered after a one-week ban on the sale of railroad tickets and direct assaults by Red storm troopers failed to smash the relief campaign.

Defying arrest and persecution, the East Germans thumbed their noses at the Communist police by finding or making new loopholes.

Lines formed at the food stations before mid-morning and the vast give-away was expected to pass the two-million-parcel mark over the weekend. Yesterday 108,000 parcels were distributed—64,000 to residents of the Russian occupation zone — bringing the total for 12 days to 1,865,000.

Persecuted in Reprisal

Widespread Communist persecution continued against people who took the American aid. In some places, pensions and other public aid were cut of in reprisal.

East Germany's shaky army and People's police were racked by continued desertions as 25 more cops and soldiers fled to West Berlin last night for asylum. This brought the total for the first seven days of August to 186 and the total for this year to 2,656. Many of the deserters reported they fled in revolt carrying out reprisals against the food seekers.

Urges Motorists To Slow Down

Pointing out that speed is the leading cause of accidents, Sheriff Cluett Schantz today urged Ulster county motorists to "slow down, be safe, be accident free" during their vacations.

"Speeding can spoil an otherwise enjoyable vacation," the sheriff said in a statement prepared in cooperation with the 11-state speed control campaign sponsored by the Police Bureau of the State Division of Safety.

"Everyone knows the shock, grief and unpleasantness associated with accident occurrence. Nothing can mar a vacation more than a serious highway mishap. The loss of life, injury or property damage resulting from an automobile accident can curtail a vacation and completely destroy any thoughts of a happy holiday," he said.

"Speed, too fast for conditions, is responsible for almost 30 per cent of our automobile fatalities," he said, adding that speed limits should be regarded as maximum speeds under average conditions. "Should traffic be heavy, the road wet or visibility obscured, the driver should hold his speed to considerably less than the authorized limit." Slogan of the 11-state campaign is "Slow Down and Live."

Return to Work

Paris, Aug. 8 (AP)—French civil servants began trooping back to work today as the nation's worst general strike since the Popular Front days of 1936 sputtered toward a close. But mail, telegraph, telephone, gas and electric power services remained out. Buses and subways roared back into operation and government employes were at their desks when offices opened this morning. Crack railroad trains chugged out of Paris' big stations. Elsewhere, however, the rail strike continued. The returning workers were among an estimated two million Frenchmen employed in a variety of public services from street sweepers and grave diggers to rail workers who left their jobs at midnight Thursday in protest against Premier Joseph Laniel's rumored plans to save money at their expense.

Eden on the Riviera

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden flew to the Riviera today for further recuperation after three gall bladder operations. Accompanied by his wife and his son, Nicholas, he will spend about a month in southern France and Greece. Eden returned last month from the United States, where he underwent his third operation in Boston June 10.

Catholic Soldier Says Prayer Helped Him in Torture

Inchon, Korea, Aug. 8 (AP)—Sgt. James W. Richardson looked down at his Rosary.

"I spoke daily and frequently to the Man upstairs," he said. "I guess you would call it praying."

Sgt. Richardson, of Philadelphia, is at Inchon awaiting shipment home. He came out of 27 miserable months of Red imprisonment Thursday in the Korean POW exchange at Panmunjom and told of Red controls on prisoners' religious services.

"I had the wife and kids in mind all the time," he said in an interview.

"I said some prayers up there, naturally. But most of the time I just talked to Him. I honestly believe that is how I pulled through."

Richardson, a Roman Catholic, said religious services were forbidden at first in the Red prison camps.

Strike Out Lord

At Easter, 1952, the Chinese superintendent of Camp 3 allowed the Catholics to hold a service—but the Reds forbade them to use the names of the saints and struck the name of the Lord from many of the prayers they were going to use.

The men conducted the service themselves. There was no priest.

"Everything that was to be said had to be approved the Saturday night before," Richardson said. "There were a few things they cut out. They didn't like you to mention the Lord's name too much and they took out the names of all the saints.

Put Up Argument

"They left the Lord's name in there a few times because the guys argued it had to be in there."

Later, Richardson said, the Reds allowed the Americans to hold religious services every Sunday. About last April they stopped the censorship.

Richardson had a rosary and a crucifix when he was captured. The Reds took them away, along with his other personal belongings.

The rosary he had today he bought here at the Inchon replacement depot.

Richardson was a cook with a Korean military advisory group (MAG) outfit attached to the 9th Republic of Korea Division when the Communists began the second phase of their 1951 spring offensive on the eastern front the night of May 16.

Was Driving Truck

He was driving a mess truck which was part of a small convoy caught in an ambush on a mountainous road.

Richardson said he was near death several times during the first nine months he was a prisoner.

He still has five burp gun slugs in his body.

Red Guards Cruel

The Reds gave him no medical attention. The guards sometimes were cruel. They jabbed him with bayonets and urged him on with rifle butts.

North Koreans took his boots away and he walked barefoot for 32 days over rough North Korean roads.

He dropped from 180 pounds to 75. He blacked out while he was marching. Half the time he didn't know where he was. The pain from his wounds and his blistered feet was excruciating.

Sometimes the Communists were kind to him. Just after his capture a Chinese officer let him have some cookies because he was wounded.

A Caucasian in a jeep—Richardson assumed he was a Russian—stopped when he saw Richardson and another American prisoner trudging along a road in front of a North Korean guard. The Caucasian gave them an apple and a pear.

Three Caucasian soldiers in a truck who wore Russian-type uniforms game him and 15 other prisoners a loaf of bread. But mostly his captors were unkind, Richardson said.

Greece Balances Budget

Athens, Greece, Aug. 8 (AP)—Greece, whose economy has been bolstered by billions in American aid, announced today its first balanced budget since before the war. Coordination Minister Spyros Markenzinis reported at a news conference that from the projected 300 million dollar budget for the 1953-54 financial year, Greece had earmarked 51 per cent for defense and national security spending.

Suffers Minor Hurts In Rotary Cement Mixer

Glastonbury, Conn., Aug. 8 (AP)—Frederick Hale, 24, of Hartford, spent 15 minutes inside of a rotary cement mixer in operation here yesterday and emerged with only minor injuries.

Hale entered the mixer to clean it. The heavy iron barrel began to turn and he was pinned between the drum and a guard rail. His cries for help brought firemen who played a hose on the trapped man while the metal was cut away with an acetylene torch.

Hartford hospital authorities said he suffered minor leg and back injuries but that a man not as sturdy as Hale might have been killed.

Barrier Raised

would no longer be a war of strictly limited operations.

General Mark Clark, the UN commander, said at a news conference here two days ago that if the Reds broke the truce he would be in favor of using all the weapons in the American arsenal to crush the aggressors— an arsenal which, of course, includes atomic bombs.

Policy decisions kept American forces from using atomic weapons against the Communist forces in Korea or striking directly at their sources of supply in Red China.

Powerful Arguments

The pact plus economic and military aid from the United States may prove powerful arguments for getting Rhee to give up his announced intention of fighting for his country's unity if it can not be achieved in a limited time by political negotiations.

Meanwhile U. S. officials said they did not see much prospect of immediate benefit to the anti-Communist cause from reported purges in the Communist government, of war-drained North Korea.

The Pyongyang Radio said yesterday that 12 high officials have been prosecuted for planning to overthrow the Communist regime and spying for U. S. secret agents.

Speculation ranged over the possibilities that pro-Chinese and pro-Russian Communists are contending for control of the government or that Premier Kim Il Sung is attempting to hold his job against such rivals as Pak Hong Wong, former vice premier and foreign minister now reported replaced.

"The North Koreans have always been puppets," one military observed remarked. "It doesn't make much difference whether they are puppets of the Chinese or the Russians."

But the interplay of Chinese and Russian influence suggested to some officials the possibility that the shakeup may have future significance.

Two Killed When Plane Hits Television Tower

Pottsville, Pa., Aug. 8 (AP)—A private plane crashed near a mountain top television broadcast tower today and state police reported the two passengers in the plane were killed.

The tower, atop Blue Mountain 15 miles south of this eastern Pennsylvania anthracite region city, is 1,060 feet high. The mountain top is 1,300 feet above sea level.

State police at the Hamburg, Pa., substation said they had been informed the plane hit one of the guy wires supporting the giant antenna of Station WHUM-TV. A morning fog overhung the area at the time.

A spokesman at WHUM-TV studios in Reading, Pa., said they had no direct information on the accident other than that relayed by state police. The television station was not broadcasting at the time.

State police said the victims had not been identified.

Mrs. Barnum reported that the car came over her property but did very little damage and that the wheel marks were "not too bad."

Stool Pigeons'

smoking conflicted on some points, almost to a man Saturday's liberated POWs—80 of them Negroes—voiced a bitter hatred of communism.

Most of the prisoners were captured in the early days of the war while with the now-inactivated 24th regiment of the 25th Division. Many were held at Camp 5 at Pyoktong on the Yalu river just south of Manchuria.

The prisoners said they found the weed—which gave an intoxicating effect when smoked—while on wood gathering forays outside the compounds.

Pfc. Robert I. Brooks, 23, of Reidsville, S. C., said the Chinese "could have stopped" its use "if they had really wanted to.'

Another liberated POW, Cpl. Albert Dixon, 26, of Manchester, Ga., declared the Reds had made some effort to stop the practice.

Called Red Plan

Brooks said he thought the Communists encouraged its use "because if they figured they could make a junkie out of you, would would be willing to do what they wanted."

Some prisoners said only a few men smoked the weed, but Pvt. Willie J. Rudd of Los Angeles, told newsmen that at one time in his camp the Reds isolated 50 prisoners in a special narcotic ward.

Pvt. Godfrey Jones of Scarboro, W. Va., likened the weed to hashish or East Indian hemp smoked in many Oriental countries for its intoxicating effects.

Cpl. Robert I. Banks, 23, Cambridge, Md., said he knew of a few prisoners who sympathized with the Communists.

"They were called progressives" by the other prisoners, Banks said. "I thought they were taking the wrong road."

Given Courses

He said some of the "progressives" were separated from the others and given further courses in communism.

Banks said at first the white prisoners were not separated by the Reds but later the whites were put in camps away from Negroes. He said still later the prisoners were split up according to nationality but that American Negroes were kept away from the whites.

Banks said the Communists harped on racial discrimination in the United States but did not make much headway toward converting Americans into Reds.

Pfc. Wilbert R. Gibson, 29, Detroit, said "I saw them whip one guy. They hit him with a club, cut him up and threw him in a hole in the ground. I never saw him again."

Gibson said a camp fight broke out one day between his company and a group of Turk prisoners when the Americans were carrying wood across a play field where the Turks were playing soccer.

He said one American was stabbed.

Pfc. Lorn Hemphill, 26, of Whitestone, S. C., captured in December, 1950, at Kunu, was asked if the Communists used rifle butts and bayonets to prod the men on the march north of Pyoktong.

"You ain't kidding," he replied.

He said some men fell behind and a guard would remain with them but later the guard would show up without the prisoners.

"I don't know what happened to them," Hemphill said.

smoked a weed which had narcotic effects.

Meanwhile, at Inchon, a port on South Korea's west coast, some American disabled were loaded by helicopter onto the hospital ship Haven for the voyage back to the United States.

They were given the navy's best—soft bunks, clean white sheets, meals brought to them, ice cream and the run of the ship's recreational facilities.

Other able-bodied Americans returned in the first three days continued their processing, waiting for the first ship to leave for home.

The exact time of departure or arrival in the United States of the ships has not been announced.

Security Pact . . .

ly would collapse if these two countries pulled out, official quarters agree.

Will Consult Further

But the Dulles-Rhee statement said the two nations if they leave the talks will "consult further regarding the attainment of a unified, free and independent Korea which is the post-war goal the United States set for itself during World War II.

Dulles told newsmen "I believe it possible to complete great and good results by peaceful means. This is an abiding conviction of mine."

But Rhee, bitter foe of a truce which left Korea divided, has expressed no faith in political talks with the Communists. Time and again, the 78-year-old Korean leader has said what cannot be gained on the battlefield will never be won at a conference table.

The joint statement said the U. S. recognizes that South Korea "possesses the inherent right of sovereignty to deal with its problems, but it has agreed to take no unilateral action to unite Korea by military means for the agreed duration of the political conference."

To Start Sub Oct. 1

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Sea Wolf, the second U. S. atomic submarine, will begin taking shape Oct. 1. The navy said yesterday its keel would be laid at Groton, Conn. It is estimated to cost $32,700,000 without its nuclear power plant, which is being built by the General Electric Co. The first atomic submarine, The Nautilus, is estimated to cost 29 million dollars without its power plant.

Tax Case Is . . .

Scaled Down $3 Million

He said the firm got a decision speeded up in violation of treasury rules after Snyder interested himself in the case in 1948, although the figure was scaled down to three million dollars by the time the refund was approved.

Previous hearings brought out that Universal Pictures hired John Horton, Snyder's son-in-law, in 1950 as its Washington representative. Both Snyder and Horton denied the appointment had any connection with the tax case.

A second treasury ruling reported to the committee as having been speeded involved the claim of the late Frank C. Rand of St. Louis for an income tax refund of $330,000. A compromise settlement was reached at $175,000.

Cite 'Extreme Speed'

William P. Hindman, assistant subcommittee counsel, said the investigators did not think the settlement was necessarily wrong. But he said they wanted to call attention to the "extreme speed" with which it was approved, and the relationship of this speed to Snyder's interest in the case.

Snyder could not be reached for comment on yesterday's developments.

The legislators are now preparing a report on the basis of their lengthy inquiry. Kean said no more hearings are now planned, but will be held if required by future developments.

Hiker Killed in Fall

Bolton Landing, Aug. 8 (AP)—A hiker was killed yesterday when he slipped from a narrow trail and fell about 100 feet into the dry bed of a creek. Charles Prince, 53, of (651 Yonkers avenue) Yonkers was about a quarter-mile north of this resort on Lake George, hiking uphill to a reservoir. Rescuers had to be lowered down to his body on ropes. Prince, a chauffeur employed by the Burroughs Wellcome Co. of Tuckahoe, was here on a vacation with his wife, Madeline.
